

IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS TO REMOVE "MA" FERGUSON ARE HELD VIRTUALLY CERTAIN

LEGISLATORS SIGN PETITION CALLING FOR EXTRA SESSION

Governor Ferguson To Be Given Until Wednesday To Decide Whether She Will Call Legislature

2 HIGHWAY BOARD MEMBERS RESIGN.

Austin, Texas, November 23.—Impeachment proceedings against Governor Miriam A. ("Ma") Ferguson of Texas, are now virtually certain.

It was learned Monday night that more than the required number of signatures have been attached to a petition, asking a special impeachment session of the Texas legislature.

Legislators gathered here presumably to discuss tax matters, but they willingly signed the document that is destined to play an important part in bringing to a climax the political uproar that has engulfed "Ma" Ferguson's "petticoat rule."

Come From Road Trouble.
The attack on Governor Ferguson's administration is an outgrowth of charges of malfeasance in the state's highway department. Thus far, the roman governor's only answer has been that if her "personal political enemies" disliked the highway department, they could investigate it with grand jury. This was done, revealing alleged irregularities.

Political history was believed in the making Monday when the tax congress went into session. Everyone seemed to feel that something more spectacular than taxes would occupy the attention of the congress. And apparently it did.

At the close of the session early Monday evening, the petition for a special legislative session was released. It is termed a "courtesy petition" and will be presented to "Ma" Ferguson probably Tuesday. She has until November 25 to decide what to do about it.

Meet Against Her Will.

If the woman executive refuses to call the lawmakers together, as she has refused to do previously, then the legislators probably will attempt to meet without her sanction, as is shown by their action Monday.

On top of this unexpected turn in the political affairs of the Lone Star state, came the resignations of the chairman of the state highway commission, Frank V. Lanham, and another highway commissioner, Joe Buritt, both of whom were under fire for alleged mismanagement of the highway department.

several years ago, accepted the highway resignations with little comment.

"Ma" Doing Her Best.

"I have been doing my best to work the situation to the best interests of the parties," she said.

Commenting on her resignation, Lamm said:

"As for my reasons, the situation speaks for itself."

You must say "QUICK QUAKER"

To get true Scotch flavor—famous Quaker Oats flavor—in quick cooking oats

THE difference in breakfast oats is flavor. Oats, originally a Scotch dish, must have Scotch flavor.

Quick Quaker has the toasty Scotch flavor that's so wonderful... famous Quaker Oats flavor.

No other brand has it. None successfully imitates it. It's due to exclusive Quaker milling of the finest, plumpest oats. Milling methods which took some 50 years to perfect. Makes all the difference in the world. Quaker Oats spoils folks for ordinary brands of oats. Cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. No kitchen muss busy mornings.

Due to Quaker milling methods, it supplies, too, the "roughage" you need to make laxatives seldom necessary.

Look for the picture of a Quaker on the oats you get.

utilize the 50 miles of water front in the designation of the land plots, farms and city plots. Mr. Candler said the development will center on the property which surrounds the lake but said he is not ready to announce the full details of his plans.

Mr. Walker was in Atlanta several days conferring with Mr. Candler about the plans but has returned to Florida to direct initial steps in carrying out the enterprise.

The development will be carried out in two phases. In the new model city will be created which will be the center of the new community. It will be modern in every respect, every building will be the latest type of architecture and all modern city improvements will be included.

Big Farming Program.
In the second phase attention will be directed to the development of agriculture in the territory surrounding the Candler property. Demonstration farmers will be established at various points in the tract which will be used to teach farmers how to grow the products which yield the most return and which are most adaptable to the soil in that section.

The 4,000 farms of five and ten acres each will be placed on the market and efforts will be made to dispose of them to capable farmers who will be able to develop them intelligently and to the fullest extent possible, it was learned.

Mr. Candler is the youngest son of Asa G. Candler. He has large interests in the Coca-Cola company, is builder and owner of the Biltmore hotel in Atlanta, and is vice president of the Bowman hotel system, besides having other large business interests.

Mr. Candler will be president of the new company, B. T. Candler, Atlanta, will be secretary, and Dolph Walker will serve as vice president and general manager. Further details of the development plans will be announced later, Mr. Candler said.

CHAPMAN ESCAPES HANGING DECEMBER 3

he should be returned there to serve out his sentence for participating in the famous $2,000,000 New York mail robbery.

The lawyers maintained that the bandit's constitutional rights had been interfered with, when he was taken from the custody of the federal authorities and brought to Connecticut, tried and convicted of the murder of Policeman Skelly in New Britain. Chapman was sentenced to hang for this crime.

While Chapman's case is not known to have any exact precedent, his lawyers say that the federal government has always taken priority when a criminal was wanted for a major offense both by the government and the state. The complication in Chapman's case was that he was given to the Connecticut authorities "for safekeeping" and was virtually loaned to the state so that he could be tried for his life.

Chapman was not taken from Atlanta to Hartford to be tried, but from Muncie, Ind., where he was captured after escaping from Atlanta. Between the time of his escape and capture, he was alleged to have murdered a Policeman Skelly. After several delays, Chapman's attorneys argued before the federal court Monday afternoon with the application for the habeas corpus writ.

The hearing will be held at Weatherfield, because the state is still fearful lest some of Chapman's former pals attempt to liberate him. The hearing was set at a place where the state's Attorney General, who prosecuted Chapman and obtained the death sentence.

SUGGESTED COOLIDGE GIVE CHAPMAN PARDON.

Washington, November 23.—Government officials have under advisement a suggestion that President Coolidge pardon Gerald Chapman from serving the remainder of his federal sentence of imprisonment for robbery, in order that he might be hanged by Connecticut authorities.

It is understood that Attorney General Sargent is of the opinion that only a federal pardon will permit the New England authorities carrying out the death sentence, which has been imposed upon Chapman in Connecticut for the murder of Policeman Skelly in New Britain.

State's Attorney Hugh Alcorn again conferred with the attorney general Monday, but neither Alcorn nor Sargent would discuss the nature of their conversations.

sulted in a compromise. The grand jury charged that The American Road company had been overpaid $600,000. The attorney general then sued to get the excess payment refunded and for cancellation of all road contracts between the state and the American concern. Part of the excess profits were refunded and all existing contracts were torn up.

During the controversy Governor Ferguson backed the highway commissioners, instructing them to file a plea of intervention to the attorney general's suit and paying fees to highway attorneys out of the state law enforcement fund.

HAVEMEYER CUP TO BE REPLACED

New York, November 23.—(AP)—M. D. Vanderpool, president of the United States Golf association announced today that the Havemeyer amateur championship golf trophy which was destroyed in the fire at the East Lake Country club at Atlanta, will be replaced at once and will continue to be known as the Havemeyer trophy.

The old cup was insured by the U. S. G. A. for $1,000 against all worldwide risks. The association will add what money is necessary after collection of the insurance and the cup will be duplicated. All names which appeared on the old cup will be engraved on the new trophy.

The old cup was donated by Theodore A. Havemeyer, first president of the U. S. G. A., in 1894.

WILL REBUILD CLUB AT ONCE.

Plans for rebuilding East Lake Country clubhouse, which was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, were being discussed Monday by members of the Atlanta Athletic club and although no definite statement has been issued by directors it is expected that a larger and more elaborate house will be erected on the site of the old house.

A meeting of the directors is to be held at an early date at which time plans for the rebuilding will be proposed and discussed, according to Scott Hudson, president of the Atlanta Athletic club.

Rebuilding is up to the membership of the club but everyone I have talked to is eager and earnest for the club house to be rebuilt at the earliest possible moment," Mr. Hudson declared.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see plans for a building decidedly more ambitious than our old structure adopted."

"I will call this meeting as soon as I have had an opportunity to confer with the directors. It's my idea that the club meet some time this week."

In the ruins of the former clubhouse is the Havemeyer trophy, won by Robert T. Jones, Jr., emblematic of the highest golfing honor in the amateur realm. With this cup was destroyed a wealth of other trophies and emblems of other victories in the sport world.

It was estimated by Mr. Hudson that the trophies in the building alone amounted to more than $10,000. There were hundreds of medals and emblems on display in the living room that were melted or destroyed. In this collection was the Georgia state championship cup which was won by Robert T. Jones, Jr., in 1929.

Directors of the club announced Monday that the boat house will be ready for use as a temporary clubhouse by Wednesday. Locker rooms are to be provided in the temporary house and fairly spacious quarters will be provided for both men and women members.

Members of the club have been made by the Capital City and Druid Hills golf clubs for East Lake members to use their courses.

Mr. Young has been with the company for several years as industrial agent.

R. C. McLemore has been promoted to industrial service agent, it was announced. Both appointments will be effective December 1. The position of industrial agent held by Mr. Young will be abolished when he takes his new position.

MRS. ROSE COOK DIES AT PRIVATE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Rose Mary Cook, 59, of 46 St. Charles avenue, wife of Sam W. Cook, of the Guthman Laundry company, died Monday afternoon at a private hospital following an operation. Mrs. Cook was a native of Belfast, Ireland, moving to Atlanta from New York state about 25 years ago. She is survived by her husband, and a son, Gordon Cook. Mrs. Cook was a devout member of Central Presbyterian church.

THOMPSON HITS DALTON REPORT

Dalton recommendation that the new seven to take the place of the old, are only to serve at the pleasure of the president instead of, as now, under fixed terms, insuring executive independence, under the authority of and with the responsibility to the congress, with every section of the United States of equal voice and authority.

Policy Unsound.

"If Mr. Dalton made other than a 'sympathetic investigation for the president it is not evidenced. His suggestion of a regulatory body to govern the ships of nations over which we have no control is utterly unsound. The only way the United States can have potent voice in regulating ocean transportation charges is the operation of enough ships under our flag to have voice in ocean conferences determining rates. Ocean shipping is upon the high seas and not domestic, such as are the railroads operating within our nation, subject to our laws and regulated by proper officials of our government."

"The Dalton 'investigation' made in a few weeks fits in exactly with those who want to destroy the merchant marine. They industriously sought to bring it about during the Harding administration. Such effort was vigorously repudiated by Mr. Harding in his memorable statement just a few months before his death. In that statement, Harding served notice that he would have government operation 'aggressively pursued' as long as was necessary to insure this nation's merchant marine for naval security and economic protection of our people."

She staked her all

Beautiful, wealthy, athletic, talented and a social success—fortune's favorite! Jacqueline Benton took a fearful chance without thought or hesitation. The man a Greek god—a handsome, cruel, cheating gambler of Mexico's underworld.

Another man? Yes. But read "Moon Madness," a thrilling, vivid story of love and a woman's temptation. How did it all end? Complete in the December number of "True Romances."

Every story in "True Romances" is a true chapter from the life of some man or woman who has lived and learned by bitter experience. Every page contains the closely guarded secrets of lives that might face shipwreck were the authors identified in home or social circle.

In "True Romances" these tales can be told, uncensored by pride, shame or fear of consequences, because the identity of the authors remains forever masked.

The Zero Hour Comes in Every Life

Every minute marks the zero hour in some life. Steps are taken that can never be retraced. For weal or woe, the die is cast. Every tick of the clock is freighted with fate and we are but the puppets in a mighty drama. For some the role is triumph, hope, happiness! For some, defeat, despair, desolation!

If I had only known! If youth—gay, untrammelled, beautiful, reckless youth—could only be warned from the pitfalls, the snares and traps, the lurking dangers that bristle along life's pathway—what heartaches and misery would be spared!

"True Romances" is filled with straight told true tales of bliss and bereavement, of winners and losers in the battle of life. Some courted disaster. Some trod the primrose path unwary and unheeding.

Curiosity exacts large fees. Knowledge gained at first hand comes high.

In "True Romances" naked truth holds the stage. The sweet and the sad, and joyous and gloomy, the exalting and the life-wrecking experiences of men and women pass in review. The authors can be frank and straightforward, can lay bare their most closely guarded secrets because, and only because, the identity of the writers is cloaked and masked so completely that no one can penetrate the disguise.

When you read the December number of "True Romances" you will feel the throb of life in these tales which are told in plain, simple direct language. You will exult with the victors and mourn with the defeated. You will know life better. On the newsstands today.

BRITAIN DENIES PLAN TO SLASH NAVAL PROGRAM

London, November 23.—(AP)—The British government does not contemplate any reductions in its naval construction program, W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, stated in the house of commons today. This was in reply to a question as to whether the reported reductions in the naval estimates of the Japanese government gave hope of a curtailment of the British program.

Recent Tokyo dispatches said it was understood that the cabinet had agreed to postpone for a year discussion of the navy's demand for an appropriation of 23,000,000 yen for the replacement of auxiliary vessels.

Millions of boxes of oranges and grape fruit going out from the largest packing plants in the world! Millions of dollars coming in from the growing and picking of merely one-fourth of Florida's entire crop! That's only part of the basis of Winter Haven's stability.

In addition, there is the steady income from phosphate mines from which Polk County supplies 75% of the world's production. Winter Haven is more than a city of beautiful homes, gorgeous lakes, even temperate climate and the resort center of the famous Ridge section. It is a city with a sound industrial future, with property values increasing overnight and endless opportunities for profit.

Itchy Eczema On Hands Three Years Cuticura Heals

"Eczema broke out on one of my fingers and soon spread over both my hands. The breaking out was in pimples and itched badly causing me to scratch. My hands were swollen and I could not put them in water or do my regular work. It caused a terrible disfigurement and I could not sleep at night on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted about three years. I tried several different remedies and was treated but got no relief. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in two months I was healed." (Signed) Miss Pearl Reynolds, Scottsville, Ky.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap keeps the pores active and the skin clear and healthy, while the Ointment heals pimples and other irritations. Cuticura Talcum is a delicately medicated antiseptic powder of pleasing fragrance.

FATHER VOGEL NAMED FEDERAL PEN CHAPLAIN

Coincident with announcement from Washington Monday of the appointment of Lieutenant George F. W. Ladd, Salvation Army worker of Troy, N. Y., as Protestant chaplain of the Atlanta federal prison, came the permanent commission of Father C. W. Vogel, who has been serving as temporary Catholic chaplain of the institution since May 16, when he succeeded Father Emmett M. Walsh. Rev. Ladd is expected to assume his duties December 1, succeeding the late Dr. Joseph Asbury Sewell, who died November 10, after serving as Protestant chaplain for about ten years.

Father Vogel's commission makes him the permanent Catholic chaplain of the institution and thus completes the list of chaplains for the prison. He succeeded Father Walsh, who was appointed temporary Catholic chaplain when Father Thomas P. Hayden was relieved of his duties after rigging in trials involving alleged prison bribes.

LADLOW SELECTED PROTESTANT CHAPLAIN.
Washington, November 23.—(AP)—Rev. George F. W. Ladd, of Troy, N. Y., was Monday appointed as the Protestant chaplain of the Atlanta federal prison.

Mr. Ladd has been in Salvation Army work for several years and has had the experience of a prison chaplain at the Jeffersonville, Ind., reformatory. He will assume his new duties about December 1.

The Catholic chaplain at the Atlanta prison is Father C. W. Vogel, who has been in his present capacity since May last. Mr. Ladd succeeds Rev. J. H. Sewell, whose death occurred last month. Upon Mr. Sewell's death, L. C. White, superintendent of federal prisons, asked the Salvation Army leaders to submit recommendations for the replacement of Rev. C. W. Burr has met with marked success as chaplain of the federal prison at McNeill, Wash.

RADIUM WORTH $8,600 IS FOUND IN SEWER PIPE

St. Paul, Minn., November 23.—(AP)—Six weeks' patient search with a "mechanical bloodhound" has resulted in the finding in a sewer pipe of a tiny tube containing $8,600 worth of radium which disappeared from a hospital here.

Professor Henry A. Erickson, head of the physics department, University of Minnesota, constructed ionization chamber detectors which were attached to electric scopes and began to hunt along sewers leading from the hospital.

Today the detectors led him to a nine-inch pipe in a sewer tunnel, where the radium tube was found.

MOUNTAIN GUNS TAKE 12 LIVES OVER WEEK-END

Louisville, November 23.—Guns barked in the Kentucky hills and in Louisville, the metropolis of the state, over the week-end and as a result 12 men are dead and 13 are suffering from gunshot wounds.

Moonshine whiskey was the cause of the shooting bees in the hill country, reports received here today indicated, while in Louisville a "crime wave" has resulted in four fatal shootings since Friday night.

Deputy sheriffs figured in three fatal shootings in the mountains. In one case the officer also was killed and in both the other cases they were wounded by their victims. One woman shot her husband to death when, she said, he came home intoxicated and abused her.

A 10-year-old youth was killed by an "unloaded gun" in the hands of a younger brother at Albany, and a Covington boy was killed accidentally while hunting.

Two "bad men" were among the victims, both slain by officers when resisting arrest. The other fatalities were the outcome of differences between individuals.

Ford Air Mail Line To Carry Letters At New Low Rate

Washington, November 23.—(AP)—Analysis of the bids for the Ford Motor company for the Detroit-Chicago and Detroit-Cleveland air mail routes shows they will be approved at the lowest rates yet obtained for mail service. A bid was made for each route of 64 cents an ounce, instead of 67.5 per cent. of the air mail postage, postal officials today said. On that basis the rate would be $1.08 cents a pound while on the percentage basis it would be approximately $7.70 a pound. The law allows a maximum of $3.20 a pound.

FLORIDA WOMAN DIES IN PATH OF TRAIN

Lakeland, Fla., November 23.—(AP) Mrs. Owen Rawlins, 36 years old, was instantly killed at 9:30 o'clock this morning when the second section of the Atlantic Coast Line train running three hours late, struck her at the intersection of Ingraham avenue. A coroner's jury is investigating a report that the woman committed suicide.

GOVERNMENT PROBES HAVANA SUGAR CRISIS

Havana, November 23.—(AP)—Special agents of the interior department have gone to the province of Camaguey to investigate a report that sugar-mill owners, in reprisal against planters for refusing to cut their cane, have severed rail communications with the plantations. The reports said a food shortage was threatened. The Rio Cautia sugar mill in the province of Oriente announced grinding cane. This is the first mill reported to have begun operation.

SERMONS FEATURE A. M. E. CONFERENCE

St. Matthews, S. C., November 23.—(Special)—Bishop R. C. Ransom, in charge of the Central South Carolina conference since last Wednesday, preached the ordination sermon here today. His topic was "Send Your Nets." His advice was sound, practical and wisely delivered. More than 3,000 persons gave close attention.

His reference to what God and good people have and are now doing to aid in the Christian and educational development of the negro race was sound and true.

Twelve deacons and elders were ordained. Rev. Richard D. Stinson, of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute preached from the same pulpit, the text of the conference at 7:30 p. m. from the words, "Show Thyself Approved Unto God a Workman That Needeth Not to Be Ashamed."

The preacher stressed that this is the day of preparation in things of character, education and hard work for the negro. He said that one of these statements mentioned neglected in proportion to our very lives is a failure.

Special Division To Ease Florida Traffic Situation

Washington, November 23.—(AP)—In an effort to ease the Florida traffic situation, the car service division of the American Railway association announced tonight that a division of the southeast regional advisory board would be organized immediately in that state.

Representatives of the railroads entering this state, business organizations, the state railway commission and the car service division will meet tomorrow at the Mason hotel in Jacksonville to initiate the plan.

Out of this conference, the announcement said, committees charged with making arrangements for perfection of an organization at a general conference, to be held about December 15, will be formed. The state organization, it declared, "will be made up of standing committees with subcommittees covering the different commodities, decentralized by cities or territories."

In its announcement, the car service division said: "The proposed organization, set up as a distinct unit in the southeast region, will thus establish the same constant relationship between shippers, receivers of freight and the carriers with the car service division as has been so effective in the adjustment of transportation problems during the past two years in other sections of the country. There are now 12 such regional advisory board organizations, each comprising within their jurisdiction the several states of common economic and transportation interests. Because of the vast importance and the national interest in Florida, it is felt that a separate state organization in the territory is advisable from both the standpoint of the public and the carriers."

PUBLIC SERVICE MEMBERS GO TO JACKSONVILLE.
Members of the Georgia public service commission left Monday for Jacksonville, where they will attend the conference on the Florida freight embargo, which has been called there by the interstate commerce commission.

The conference will be held beginning at 10 o'clock this morning in the city council rooms at Jacksonville. It was called primarily because of complaint made by south Georgia lumber dealers that they were being seriously damaged in a business way because of the embargo and that discrimination was being shown in regard to freight shipments allowed to enter Florida.

All members of the Georgia commission went to the conference except Commissioner John T. Boileau, whose term of service ends on November 30, when he will be succeeded by J. S. Bennett, of Dodge county.

Sylvester, Ga., November 23.—(Special)—Fire destroyed the grain elevator and peanut mill of the Sylvester Milling company, of this place, about 8 o'clock last night.

It is not known how the fire originated. The loss is estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000, with about $10,000 insurance.

ARMY HEADS ATTEND POST ENTERTAINMENT

Major General Johnson Hagood, commander of the fourth corps area, together with high ranking officers of his staff will be honor guests tonight at Fort McPherson, where the musical comedy and minstrel show, sponsored by Chaplain J. A. Hockman and a committee, will be staged at the post theater for the benefit of the fund to purchase a new pipe organ for the army chapel.

In making the announcement of the entertainment, one of the members of the committee stated that Chaplain Hockman feels gratified at the response thus far, and judging from the advance sale of tickets, the undertaking would be a financial success.

Prominent among Atlantans who have volunteered their services are Nora Allen, lyric soprano; Maude Waller, leader of the chorus; Betty Addicks, who will render an Hawaiian dance number accompanied by her own orchestra; Katherine McElroy, Florence and Frances Foville, Marie Forester, Anna Mae Cole, Wilhelmina Colley, Catherine Cole, Alice Dodson and others.

George Bush, interlocutor in the minstrel number, will be supported by such blackface funmakers as Billy Stocks, Rufus Monk, Odie Thomas, Roy Callaway, Grady Cook and Herbert Anderson, as principal comedians, while Sergeant John P. Ryan, Fort McPherson's favorite songster, and John Clotworthy will sing the ballad numbers. Music will be furnished by the 22d U. S. infantry orchestra. The entertainment is being staged under direction of Signor Emilio Valpi.

Development of oil supplies from low-grade coal in Spain may result from tests now being made by the Spanish government.

The boy's parents had motored from this city to visit him and after they had lunched together, young Valiton slipped into the family automobile and unnoticed by the guards, sped out of the prison grounds. It was his second escape since his conviction in Dade county. Valiton alias William Fox, escaped from Captain I. L. Taylor, near Tallahassee on July 17, while being transferred from Raiford to state road camp No. 1, near Marianna. He was recaptured a week later.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known cures, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Forty-Five Unfortunates
DEPEND ON COMMUNITY CHEST FOR FUNDS
In Home for Incurables

This photograph was made Monday at the Home for Incurables, one of the many Atlanta charitable institutions mainly dependent upon the Community Chest for its support.

Blighted by disease, pronounced incurable by physicians, nothing ahead in life but a tortuous path of suffering that leads to but one inevitable end—that's the condition of 42 people now at the Home for Incurables in Atlanta.

Such a situation presupposes an atmosphere of gloom, of hopelessness, of despair, of depression, of misery. But is there such an atmosphere there? The answer is, No. No, the stage's proverbial thousand times No. On the contrary, it is one of the most cheerful spots in Atlanta.

Aided by funds provided by the Community Chest and by the board of forty Atlanta women headed by Mrs. Floyd McKee, Sr., these unfortunate people are receiving a chance to enjoy some of the good things of life, although sore afflicted. They have pleasure to ameliorate their suffering and enjoy recreation and relaxation through the efforts of the staff of the home.

Mrs. S. P. Elliott has served as superintendent of the home for the last five years. It now has a capacity of 45 inmates. Mrs. Elliott said no patients are received who are suffering with contagious or mental diseases. A large percentage of the cases are paralysis.

To be admitted to the home a person suffering with disease must be pronounced incurable by the resident physician. After they are admitted they are given every possible medical attention to alleviate suffering, are provided with good food and sleeping quarters and everything possible is done for the recreation and entertainment of these unfortunates.

"In some cases we have taken people pronounced incurable, and after they have lived here for a period, we have found that we could improve their health to the extent that they are able to work and make their own way," Mrs. Elliott said. "We have two such cases now and, although most of the people here realize the serious state of their condition, very few of them lose hope of a possible cure. This hope buoy them up and keeps them cheerful and we have few complaints, although some of our patients are not able to move without assistance."

The home serves Fulton county and Atlanta and was established 24 years ago. During that time it has brought relief to numerous sufferers, provided a comfortable home for many incurables who were homeless and has aided many families by relieving them of the almost impossible duty of supporting a helpless invalid.

Virtually the entire support of the home rests on the Community Chest and the board of directors composed of 40 Atlanta women. The home is functioning with more efficiency and at less cost per capita now than at any time in its history.

FOUR ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Four persons were injured in as many accidents in Atlanta Monday.

T. C. Tate, 40, of 404 Central avenue, had his right arm broken when his automobile engine back-fired while he was cranking it.

George Heavers, 16, of 45 Indale road, received severe bruises when he was knocked down by an automobile. He told physicians at Grady hospital. The police had no record of the accident.

E. C. Parker, 40, of 158 Cameron street, was bruised about the chest and right knee in an automobile accident. The police had no record of it. After treatment at Grady hospital, he returned to his home.

An unidentified negro was knocked down and bruised at Georgia avenue and Capitol avenue by the automobile of George Kane, of 30 N. Buren street, according to Kane's report to Captain G. T. Butler, of the police department.

Kane said that he was proceeding at a moderate rate of speed when the negro ran into the side of his car from in front of another machine. He stopped and offered assistance, he said, but the negro refused to be taken to a hospital.

planning commission Monday in recommending approval of a petition to change that section from an apartment house to an industrial zone.

Other petitions approved included: Rezoning of Dill avenue and Alene, 60 feet on each street for business.

Rezoning of northeast corner of Greensferry and Lawton streets, now residence, to a business district. Rezoning of the corner of St. Jose and West Fair, now residential, to business.

The petition to rezone the corner of Pond and Newport from residence to business district was disapproved. The recommendations of the planning commission will go to the council ordinance committee a week from next Friday and from that body to city council the following Monday.

200 PLEDGE AID UPON CHEST DRIVE

ness interests of Atlanta, who have a pride in Atlanta's standing before the world, must go out and get these workers and lead them in putting the Chest fund over the top.

A good start in the work was made. Mr. Black announced, at a meeting of the executive committee of the Chest fund, that he had secured 14 men pledged themselves to raise teams of ten men each, to represent various lines of activities. These men and the groups they represented were: H. M. Atkinson, Power company team; J. M. B. Hoxsey, telephone company; J. P. Allen, dry goods; E. H. Black, banks; Roy McCraw, Junior Chamber of Commerce; Cam Dorsey, lawyers; Hugh Willett, life insurance; A. S. Adams, real estate; W. W. Orr, clothing; H. M. Hutchinson, casualty insurance; Mayor Walter Sims, city of Atlanta; Cator Woolford, printers; A. J. Orme, automobiles, and Walter Candler, hotels.

Teams Form Nucleus.

These teams, Mr. Black explained, formed the nucleus of the organization for the general campaign which is expected to complete the Chest fund. In addition there will be about 100 workers from the men's Bible classes of the city, another 100 workers from the civic clubs, a large team from the army unit in Atlanta, a team of federal employees and workers from other organizations.

The fact that there have not been enough workers in the field this year was evidenced by the statement of Mr. Black that to date less than 5,000 pledges have been received, in comparison with the 30,000 subscribers to the Community Chest last year.

"There are approximately 20,000 to 25,000 people who contributed to the Chest last year in the field this year called upon yet this year for their contribution because we have not had enough men to get to see them," Mr. Black said. "They will give their subscriptions if we call upon them, for there have been few refusals reported by the workers so far in this campaign."

"We have raised $250,000 to advertise Atlanta to the world, but let me tell you that such an advertising

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

Don't mix a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, in the form of a white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frostbites, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS CAVALIER CONVICTION

Philadelphia, November 23.—(P)—The state supreme court today upheld the first degree conviction of William Cavalier, the 15-year-old boy sentenced to death by the Schuylkill county court for the killing of his grandmother.

Cavalier is believed to be the youngest boy ever sentenced to death by a Pennsylvania court. His grandmother, Mrs. Catharine Cavalier, was 68 years old. Cavalier admitted he killed her for the purpose of robbery. More than $100 in cash taken from Mrs. Cavalier was found in the boy's possession.

Cavalier had been cared for by his grandparents ever since he was eight months old, when his mother and father separated.

The boy was convicted of the murder on January 11.

The boy's last hope now appears to be the board of pardons.

Neighborhood Meeting.

The neighborhood campaign meeting was presided over by W. R. C. Smith, chairman of that phase of the work and more than 150 men and women who have been actually canvassing the wards and districts were in attendance.

Reports made to the meeting indicated that approximately $33,000 had been raised in the house-to-house solicitation, by 290 workers, giving an average of more than $100 for each worker. Chairman Smith thanked the workers cordially for the showing made, but emphasized the fact that if the 4,000 workers who had been counted on had participated in the drive and made the same relative showing as the 290, the Chest would have been filled by this time.

Dr. C. C. Aven, of the third ward, reported that he had made appeals in four churches and the one parent-teacher association meeting for workers, but not a single person had volunteered to help in the work of getting subscriptions.

The best organization was shown in the ninth ward, where teams under the leadership of Horace Russell obtained more than 500 subscriptions, with an average of $15 per person.

Will Appeal to Schools.

Plans to carry the Chest campaign into the public and private schools of the city were completed Monday with the appointment of John T. Hancock, president of the board of education, as regional commander of schools. He will name division commanders in all the schools who will organize the work to give every child and teacher an opportunity to contribute to the Community Chest fund.

In addition to the public schools, the institutions to be included in this phase of the work will include Georgia Tech, Marietta, Washington seminary, North Avenue Presbyterian and the dental and business schools.

Cotton States Solons To Meet In Report Probe

Greenville, S. C., November 23.—(P)—Representatives and senators from the cotton-growing states will be called into a conference at Washington, lasting for several days, in the effort to remedy certain conditions affecting the south; it was stated here today by Congressman J. J. McSwain, of the fourth congressional district. The conference will begin December 8 or 9 and night sessions will be held during the week until some form of relief legislation is decided upon.

Decision to hold a conference of all congressmen and representatives from the cotton-growing states, who will be invited, was reached here during the week-end by Congressman McSwain and Senator J. T. Hefflin, of Alabama. Senator Hefflin held a lengthy conference with Congressman McSwain, the result of which was the decision to have a conference of southern members shortly after congress convenes.

Asked as to why the conference was to be held, Congressman McSwain said it was largely the outgrowth of the circumstances which had permitted the south to be fleeced out of from $300,000,000 to $350,000,000 on the present cotton crop. The continual fluctuating of the cotton prices had convinced senators and representatives that something should be done and the relief, it is hoped to give the cotton belt, will be decided upon at the approaching conference, according to the plans.

Senator Hefflin, who was a speaker at the annual banquet of the chamber of commerce, mentioned the possibility of cotton exchanges in the United States being abolished by congress, in a conversation with newspapermen. He said that such a step was possible, but that it remained to be seen what might be done in regard to the proposal.

Congressman McSwain said today that while it remained to be seen what steps, if any, are taken governing the cotton exchanges, such places could be abolished.

"They can be abolished if they have to be taxed out of existence," Congressman McSwain said, when asked as to what steps might be taken toward abolishing cotton exchanges in the United States. However, made it plain that sentiment might not favor such a move.

Congressman McSwain said he favored the abolishment of the semi-monthly government crop estimate and eventually the abolishment of monthly estimates.

SEABOARD ADDS
THREE NEW TRAINS

Inauguration of three new de luxe winter trains, between New York and Florida, was announced Monday by the local officials of the Seaboard Air Line railway. The addition of these trains, it was stated, will give the Seaboard, six fast trains between eastern cities and Florida, as well as the popular Seaboard Special, operating between the central west and the west coast of Florida, and the New Orleans-Florida Limited, between Jacksonville and New Orleans.

The three new trains include the "Orange Blossom" Special, which made its first trip from New York on Saturday last. This train operates on a fast schedule to West Palm Beach and St. Petersburg, and is, it is stated, the only one-night-out fast train to both coasts of Florida through central Florida by daylight.

The Seaboard Florida Limited, will make its first trip of the present season leaving New York on Monday, December 7. This runs to the east coast of Florida. Because of the heavy Florida traffic this season, a new train, known as the Seaboard Florida Limited, West Coast, will operate between New York and St. Petersburg, serving the west coast resorts.

Club lounge car, with barber-valet and shower bath service for men, and observation lounge car with maid-matrimonist service and bath for women will be provided on all three of these trains, in addition to modern section, compartment and drawing room sleeping cars between New York and the principal resorts on the east and west coasts and in central Florida.

FINAL RITES HELD
FOR J. W. VAUGHAN

Funeral services for J. W. Vaughan, for forty-five years sheriff of the county, were held Monday afternoon at the chapel of H.

J. W. VAUGHAN.

Sheriff Vaughan died suddenly Saturday morning at his residence at 37 East Merriitts avenue. He had gone to his office as usual but complained early in the morning of a pain in the chest and went home, dying an hour later.

Funeral services were conducted by Bishop Warren A. Candler, assisted by the Rev. J. B. Mitchell, pastor of St. Mark's Methodist church. Mr. Vaughan was an old member of that congregation. He also was a leading member of the Bible class for men conducted by Judge Warner Hill.

The state supreme court was closed Monday in honor of the memory of Sheriff Vaughan. All the justices attended the funeral as honorary escort.

During his long service as sheriff of the supreme court, Mr. Vaughan met and knew nearly all the leading lawyers and jurists of the state, and his death caused much sorrow in legal circles. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Annie Crues; a daughter, Mrs. I. J. Blanton; a brother, Dr. Charles J. Vaughan; and two grandchildren, Vaughan Blanton and Miss Annette Blanton.

ARTHUR MERRILL DIES
AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Arthur J. Merrill, 48, well-known business man and resident of West End, died at the home at 20 Gordon place Monday after an illness of nearly six months. Mr. Merrill was prominent in civic, social and church life of West End.

At the time of his death he was secretary and treasurer of the Southern Iron and Equipment company. He had been with the company for the past 30 years. He also had held the place as secretary of the Southern and Southwestern Railway club for 20 years.

Mr. Merrill moved to Atlanta 34 years ago from his native home in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He was an active member of the Rotary club and was a deacon in the West End Presbyterian church. He was a member of W. D. Lusk's Masonic lodge.

Following the action of the South Georgia railroad authority, it is probable that Georgia railroads will agree to move carloads of corn for the relief of the drought-stricken counties in the north, without freight charges, in the opinion of James A. Perry, member of the Georgia public service commission.

Commissioner Perry referred Monday to the action of the two roads mentioned in moving, without any freight charges, the carload of corn given by farmers of Brooks county, to farmers in the vicinity of Hartwell, where it is to be distributed as needed, under the supervision of Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture, who was appointed chairman of the special drought relief committee by Governor Clifford Walker.

Commissioner Perry said he had heard there was an over-production of corn in some parts of south Georgia and said he had no doubt that, if any of the farmers in such sections desired to contribute corn for the relief of the stricken farmers of the north, the roads would be glad to carry such carload shipments free.

'ROUND-THE-WORLD' COUPLE IN CITY; CALL ON GOVERNOR

With a 75-pound pack strapped to his back, and fastened by a steel chain and sealed handcuffs to his right wrist, C. J. "Jack" Flynn, veteran of the world war, member of the American Legion, possessor of the Croix de Guerre and diverse other medals and decorations, called on Governor Clifford Walker and Mayor Walter A. Sims Monday.

Flynn's wife likewise carried a pack on her back, though it weighed only 35 pounds, and there were no chains or handcuffs about her. On her husband's pack was pinned a sign, reading "The Round the World Man." And on Mrs. Flynn's back was a smaller sign, reading "Me, Too."

JOHNSON VETOED
BY MAYOR SIMS

A resolution adopted by council and the aldermanic board last week to pay $4,716.40 to C. J. Johnson for that part of his property used in constructing the Hunter street approach to the Spring street viaduct was vetoed by Mayor Sims Monday.

The resolution set forth that $2,783 had been previously fixed as the allowance to Mr. Johnson but that it was "much less than proportionate amounts allowed for other property similarly situated." The resolution also set forth that more land was used than was shown in the original plat. Explaining his veto, the mayor said he had been advised by the city attorney it was illegal and said his information was that no more land of Mr. Johnson's was taken than that shown on the plat.

'Cherokee Trail' Road
Residents Petition
To Join State System

A petition signed by several hundred residents along the road between Gainesville and Route 1, known as the "Cherokee Trail" route, has been received by the state highway board, asking that that road be included in the additional mileage to be added to the state highway system under authority of a bill passed at the last session of the legislature.

No decision on the petition will be made by the board before February 1, it was announced by Chairman John N. Holder, in view of the fact that the board has sent questionnaires to all counties which have made similar requests and has set that date for final consideration of all such petitions.

The petition received Monday was sent in by W. J. Tidwell, ordinary and ex-officio member of the commission of roads and revenues of Forsyth county. It points out that this will make a cross-section road, running east and west, north of Atlanta. It is said that there is now no such road

TWO BOYS INJURED IN FALL DOWN FLUE

Avery Mann, 16, of 45 Vannoy street and Estern McMillan, 16, of 306 Windsor street both students at Hoke Smith Junior High school were seriously injured Monday at noon when a furnace vent gave way and they dropped two stories through the heat of the flue. Both were taken to Grady hospital.

Mann had his right arm broken and received severe bruises and cuts and McMillan had his left leg broken and other injuries. Mann fell to the bottom of the shaft but McMillan was wedged in the shaft.

Members of the fire department were called and the students were rescued by means of an improvised windlass arranged by Fire Chief Cody. An ambulance was called and the boys were rushed to Grady hospital. The boys had been standing over the furnace to get warm during the lunch hour when it gave way. It was at first feared that both would be suffocated before they could be rescued.

BOSTON PAPER SHOWS
PROGRESS OF GEORGIA

Telling the world of the progress and development of Georgia, a supplement of the Christian Science Monitor devoted to this state, was issued Saturday and has arrived in the south for distribution.

Stories of the industrial and agricultural wealth of Georgia were furnished to the Monitor by leading writers of this state, and reveal every detail of the amazing leaps and bounds by which Georgia has come to the front among southern states.

An artist's drawing of Georgia flanked by Georgia scenes adorns the first page of the supplement, with General James Edward Oglethorpe's figure watching the future of the state he founded. The supplement is an example of the highest journalistic and typographical art.

Among contributors to the edition were Governor Clifford Walker, Frank L. Stanton, Dr. Lucian Lamar Knight, Mrs. Mary Harris Armour, Hollins N. Randolph, John T. Boffeillet and many others.

EDUCATION WEEK
GREAT SUCCESS
SAYS FORT LAND

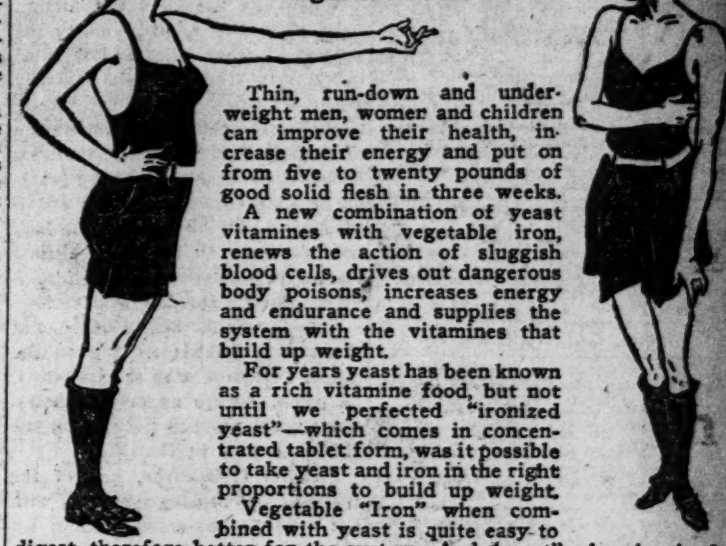

Fort E. Land, state superintendent of education, Monday stated that Education week, which was celebrated in Georgia last week, had been a complete success.

Meetings in all parts of the state created much enthusiasm for the cause of better schools," he said, "and more interest was displayed in educational matters than ever before in my experience."

"County and city school superintendents entered wholeheartedly in the program. Patrons and visitors generally visited the schools. Programs of civic clubs were given over to the cause, and many educational leaders made addresses."

Easy To Gain Weight
With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast With Vegetable Iron Builds Up Weight in Three Weeks

Thin, run-down and underweight men, women and children can improve their health, increase their energy and put on from five to twenty pounds of good solid flesh in three weeks. A new combination of yeast vitamins with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with the vitamins that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamin food, but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight. Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. It makes no difference how old you are—or how young you are—how long you have been underweight—or how much underweight you are. "Ironized yeast" tablets are positively guaranteed to pick you right up, and add from five to twenty pounds of good firm flesh in three weeks' time. If they fail get your money back. Sold by druggists, at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package, or sent direct from laboratory on receipt of price. Ironized Yeast Co., Desk 201, Atlanta, Ga.

Safe for these papers!

THE fire came too soon and the firemen came too late. Precious records—the work of years—many that never could be replaced—black ashes!

All over the country, daily, valuable records are going up in smoke. Here's a safe in Birmingham, Ala. A merchant whose store had been burned out, put in an insurance claim for $75,000. But he could not sustain this amount because certain books, left out of his safe, had been consumed by fire. An accountant spent months on the case, at a large fee, and the merchant finally had to admit that his actual records of property lost entitled him to only $50,000.

Now think of this striking contrast. A wholesale grocery business in Birmingham carried $37,500 insurance. Fire swept the premises, but the records were protected in a large safe and recovered intact. These records proved that stock on hand amounted to $48,000. The insurance companies promptly paid in full and waived all claim on the salvage, which netted the business $10,000.

Protection or destruction—which? And protection costs so little! Let us send you the free Shaw-Walker booklet, "Years to Create, Minutes to Cremate." It will show you how you can keep your records safe. Telephone now or write your name and address on a corner of this ad and mail it before you go home tonight.

$108.75 and up buys a Shaw-Walker Safe, delivered, with interiors extra to suit. Many sizes and models for all degrees of fire risk. The famous "Built-Like-a-Skyscraper" construction is built into every Shaw-Walker Safe.

THAT'S children's food. Easily prepared. Easily digested. Wouldn't hurt anybody. But when you grew up, you supposedly put away childish things. Including childish food. Childish ideas. Childish opinions—easily prepared, easily digested, couldn't hurt anybody.

But did you, though? Where do you get your points of view on current topics? Do you know both sides of a question and then can you make up your own mind? Or do you gobble up some predigested opinion you read

Mature minds find their best pastures in browsing through the Forum, a magazine of liberal opinion. Orthodox and heterodox, radical and conservative, its pages are open to them all. The Forum is the most unusual magazine in America today. Not one view, but many views of social, religious, political and economic questions are aired in its pages. Look below, for instance:

THE KLAN: DEFENDER OF AMERICANISM?

by Hiram Wesley Evans, Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan

In the September Forum, William Robinson Pattangall, leading Democrat of Maine, threw down the gauntlet by declaring that the un-Americanism of the Klan attacked and undermined the very spirit of Americanism which it was its avowed objective to defend. And now cometh Imperial Wizard Evans, who replies that the intolerance of the Klan is a necessary counter weapon with which to combat the intolerance of Catholics, Jews and other groups. This is unquestionably the most significant and outspoken article ever signed by a Klan leader.

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS AND CITIZENSHIP, by Patrick Joseph Shelly. The education of the growing soul is as necessary as the education of the growing mind. American public schools do not educate the soul. Therefore, all Catholic children should be sent to parochial schools. Such is the view expressed in this article. Stimulating, to say the least, to find it lying cheek by jowl with the Imperial Wizard's paper. But that's the Forum—many points of view, not one.

WHAT IS THE SENATE? By George Wharton Pepper. The senior Senator from Pennsylvania describes the striking contrast between what the Senate was meant to be and what the various lobbies are turning it into.

THE SUICIDE OF POLAND, by Robert Dell. The Poles may have been downtrodden people and all that, but they're committing the same mistake in regard to the Jews that Prussia committed in regard to the Poles—eradicating national sentiment by oppression.

LIFE VERSUS LIVES, by Havelock Ellis. Fourth paper in the "War or Peace?" series. This most eminent of neo-Malthusians solves the problem of over-population as he solves everything—sexually. He would have two kinds of marital relations, "family marriages" and "companionate marriages."

THE PEARL OF LOVE, by H. G. Wells. For once the scientist-novelist-philosopher lays aside his seriousness and writes a delicate fantasy, just to show that he can.

THE HOME LIFE OF A FISH, by William Beebe. The commander of the Arcturion chats pleasantly of "the personality, the raison d'être of some fish," as he puts it. It happens to be the Xesurus Laticlavus or Side-Stripped Scraping-Tail.

COMMUNIZED EMOTION, by Carl Dreher, who ridicules the everlasting sob-stuff you meet in the daily papers. But the Heroic Fireman, the Bandit-Infested Love-Nest, the Daring Bank-Robber and the Prince of Wales may not have such a deleterious effect as Mr. Dreher believes.

JUSTICE, by Louis Bromfield. The young author of "Possession" and "The Green Bay Tree" writes a short story around an appealing episode in the police court, where "justice" again yields to custom.

Besides the articles above, you will find, as always, in the Forum a bouquet of modern poetry, in many tendencies and moods. Robert Herrick's new novel of university life, "Chimes," appears in its second installment. Also, the usual Forum departments.

The world of current thought is as near as the nearest news-stand. Go out and get the December number of the most unusual magazine in America. Or clip the coupon below for our special mail subscription offer.

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

The national survey of the Moderation League discloses, it claims, that the Volstead law is an "utter failure" in promoting temperance and sobriety.

This league is an organization composed of a number of outstanding American citizens, among whom are Elihu Root, former Secretary of Commerce, Redfield, Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching; Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, and others. Its reports must therefore be accepted with respect, for men of this caliber would not attach their names to incorrect findings, or colored and distorted propaganda.

The league is not seeking the repeal of the 18th amendment. To the contrary, it is deeply concerned, as are all of the many great Americans who constitute it, in seeing that the amendment may serve the good purposes for which it was intended. It finds that it is not doing so, and that under the present intricate, conflicting and sumptuary statutory vehicle that is employed to enforce the amendment, it can never do so.

The survey it has just completed, according to the findings summed up and signed by these reputable citizens, was most exhaustive—so much so, indeed, that guess work, personal opinions and estimate conclusions were entirely eliminated. It incorporated statistical facts, like a government census, and let these facts, as resolutely compiled, speak for themselves. From these facts it found that:

"There has been a startling increase in drunkenness since the Volstead act was enacted, and arrests in 1924 for drunkenness rebounded 'just about' to the pre-prohibition level.

"There has been an increase in arrests of intoxicated drivers, far greater than the proportionate increase in the number of automobiles since 1918.

"States formerly 'dry,' through local option, have more drunkenness under the bone-dry Volstead act than they had under their own state dry laws.

"There is a constant increase in drinking among minors."

It cannot be overlooked, in any appraisal that may be made of the findings, that they have been wholly sustained by similar recent surveys of other organizations, including the American federation of evangelical churches, every member of which may be classed as an ultra proponent of the prohibition amendment.

The finding, as published, that "states formerly dry under local option have more drunkenness under the Volstead act," is of peculiar interest in Georgia, as this was the first state in America—as is related in colonial history—to declare against the sale of intoxicating liquors, and for many years it had been a dry state under local option at the time of the ratification of the federal amendment, and the enactment of the Volstead law.

Nor are the figures as to the astounding increase in Atlanta arrests for drunkenness, under the latter of the two systems of prohibition, a surprise to those who have taken the trouble to study the situation impartially.

The survey finds that in Atlanta in 1916 there were 3,329 arrests for drunkenness, and only 2,496 such arrests in 1918. The Volstead act went into effect in the fall of 1919. In 1920 there were 4,499 arrests for drunkenness here, 6,655 in 1922, and 7,973 in 1924. These figures, easy of verification, cannot be analyzed without alarm on the part of every Atlanta citizen, whatever may be the individual opinions as to the effectiveness of the Volstead law, now or in prospect.

But Atlanta has shown no greater increase in drunkenness under the present system than other cities in states in which intoxicants had been outlawed by local option. Birmingham increased from 907 in 1916 to 3,972 in 1924. Jacksonville showed a far less percentage of increase, although that city had been wet until within a very few years before the American declaration of war in 1917. It had only 4,179 arrests for drunkenness in 1918, almost one year before the Volstead act, and 2,251 in 1924.

When one considers the Atlanta figures—which relatively may be applied to other cities and sections in Georgia—the question naturally arises—is history repeating itself?

During the colonial administration of General Oglethorpe the trustees, to whom the charter had been granted by King George II, wrote unanimously and inviolately into the laws of the colony an inhibition against trading in and possession of intoxicating liquors and negro slaves.

The Spaniards held Florida, and the French Louisiana. But to the north, beginning with the Carolinas, all colonies were under British domination, yet no such prohibition law existed except in Georgia.

General Oglethorpe, one of the trustees, was in deep sympathy with the measure and endeavored to enforce it. It had the support of his subordinate officials. And yet under it, when liquors were confiscated and destroyed, and violators severely punished, drunkenness increased at such an alarming rate that the residents of the colony of Georgia by a tremendous majority prayed the trustees for its repeal in the interest of morality and temperance, and one of the greatest ecclesiastical figures in early American history, Rev. George Whitfield, led the fight for its repeal. It was repealed, and Georgia then controlled intelligently and effectively her liquor trade, drunkenness was markedly reduced, and the state moved forward at a new and unparalleled economic pace.

There is a striking similarity in conditions under prohibition then, as recorded in history, and now, as found by the survey of the Moderation League.

These are matters that command intelligent, unbiased consideration. There is not a good citizen in America who wants the saloon back. The outstanding thought of America is opposed to any serious discussion even of the possible repeal of the 18th amendment. At the same time there is not a good citizen in America who is satisfied with the present trend as to temperance—among the young especially. It cannot, it must not continue as it is.

What is to be done about it? That is the greatest moral problem before the people of this country today.

WATCHING GEORGIA.

Dr. Charles B. Slade, a member of the Georgia colony of New York city, keeps an eye on the educational progress in his native state, and wonders when her record for support for schools will be a matter of pride instead of humiliation. Dr. Slade, who is an alumnus of the university, writes interestingly on this page of his hopes that great private wealth may be poured into Georgia to bring her educational standard up in the event the state legislature continues its policy of institutional starvation, and V. W. Y.

It is refreshing that Georgia boys who have entered businesses or the professions in other states keep their ears to the ground trying to hear the rumblings of better educational progress in the state of their nativity. Dr. Slade thinks that evidences of an approaching renaissance are to be seen, and—with Georgia almost at the bottom of the list of states in school support—he feels that the present "humiliation of deficiency" cannot and will not indefinitely continue.

Georgia is making progress along many constructive lines. Her people are seeing their opportunities. They are profiting by the experiences of sister states. They are learning the lesson.

Just as the sentiment for highway development is sweeping the state, so are the people aroused to the necessity for a more progressive school system, for enlarged facilities, for adequate institutional advantages, for sufficient maintenance, for equal opportunities.

All material human progress must of necessity find a foundation upon education. The Georgia boys who have left Georgia and are succeeding in other fields realize this, and hope for a better day in the educational record of their mother state.

Just surveying casual, the tide of feminine beauty that flows alluringly along Main street, we reach the conclusion that most of the girls are not so well pleased with the Volstead act as they are.

God gave them, but are more than satisfied with the shape of their legs.

The Albany Herald notes that Marconi has perfected an instrument which is guaranteed to give volume to the tones of a weak-voiced orator, and it adds: "What the world is waiting for is a device that will make inaudible the speechmakers nobody wants to hear."

How "The Wind Blows" Toward Georgia

Editor Constitution: In today's mail came a letter from Ashley, Mich., from a farmer who asked assistance in locating a farm.

Attached to this letter was an editorial which was printed in The Constitution some time ago under the title "The Leaven Works." The author of this letter describes so vividly a point of view that is undoubtedly very common in the north, that I am taking the liberty of adding the contents of this letter to your information. You will observe how the Florida boom in this instance has worked on the psychology of this northern farmer to cause him to be interested in Georgia.

The letter is from Ashley, Mich., and is as follows:

With a few others here, I am interested in trying to find a locality in the south in which to locate for a home. I have expected to go back home now. Occupation is farming (mixed). In this part of Michigan we have good soil. I am of the opinion that people who expect to live and farm in that part of the world would find the climate, soil and markets more to their liking in the north and south central part of your state. Judging from the situation of the cities of Chattanooga, Rome, Birmingham, Atlanta, there should be good markets for farm produce. If I am not wrong, drinking water is the best in the world.

Many people from central Michigan go to Florida for the winter. Real estate men here and here together have worked up a lot of enthusiasm for Florida in Michigan. When one left didn't talk of the other did, and are catching lots of 'em. I may be just a whine, but I think, other conditions being equal, I might like to look at the country between Chattanooga and Atlanta. It will not take a very large amount of land to satisfy my needs as measured by a recent investment in real estate, but think I can find satisfactory locality near a good highway, where I can practice farming something similar to what I have been used to, would get along. And if I can get in a location that is satisfactory I have little doubt that I shall be able to interest several friends who would be glad to get away from northern winters but don't know just where to look for what they want.

I am prompted to write you by an editorial from The Atlanta Constitution, "The Leaven Works," which was sent to me by a friend.

I submit the above for your attention as showing how the wind is blowing toward Georgia.

THE CONSTITUTION ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1925

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

New York, November 23.—Some of the jazz orchestras in Broadway's supper clubs have a language all of their own. It consists of curious squeaking sounds that to the uninitiated sound more like decorative flourishes at the end of a line of music. Ted Lewis explained to me that it really is a dialogue between the players and that they carry on quite lengthy conversations that way.

For instance the saxophonist will suddenly double and emit a series of long howls and immediately every member of the orchestra will turn his face to the door. The howls meant: "Look, there is that sugar-papa with the model mamma, who tipped us a five spot last night." Or else "Who's the blonde beauty with Gallagher? Seems I saw her before." And the answer comes shrilly through the clarinet: "It must be his daughter." Many a nocturnal Maise would build up with indignation if she was he to the remarks that are passed over her make-up by the kettle drummer or the bull fiddler.

Nearly every human being, otherwise quite normal, has some little idiosyncrasy that in some cases borders on neuroticism. A famous writer of fiction has told me that he has seen the other day told me that he simply cannot look at granite buildings. Every time he passes one of these edifices with smooth shiny granite bases he puts his hand over his teeth. He has a haunting fear that he will stumble and break his teeth against the wall.

Of course the number of people who cannot abide the screaming noise of scraping, say of a knife over a grindstone or the bottom of a frying pan, is legion. I knew a fellow in the army, a strapping giant he was, who actually fainted away if anyone near him plucked at a woolen sock or picked away with finger nails at a shoe lace that had been tied in a knot.

I was reminded of this case the other day when I heard that Franz Molnar, the Hungarian playwright, had been impossible to remain in a room when there are portieres. They terrified him and his eyes dilated with ever-increasing horror until fear overwhelmed him and he rushes for the portieres to tear them down and look what is behind them. After that he is quite at ease.

The absence of any kind of portraits or photographs in the home of a New York millionaire is explained in the same way by the man's crushing fear of having the eyes of the picture stare at him, as photographs will do. For the same reason he has banned all statues and models from his home.

The pathetic sight of a legless man huddled in the middle of the sidewalk in the hour when the shopping crowds on 34th street were densest, seemed to touch the hearts of hundreds of women, who rained coins in his outstretched hat. Suddenly a policeman loomed in the crowd and spotted the beggar. "Get up and get out of here," shouted the cop. I believe I was not the only surprised person there when the "legless" one produced a pair of feet and subsequently a pair of healthy legs from under him. He was not a beggar, but a cat and simply crawled down the street.

their spirit. They judge by superficialities, by the bonnaires, the cafes, the restaurants, the theatres. The Germans have always believed that was the real France. But that is not the people who have passed twenty years of their lives in the trenches, who have plunged into it again, and twenty times has come to life again and never yet has perished. As Oliver said to Christopher: "You know nothing of the true hearts of the men and women living in poor lodgings, in the garrets of Paris, in the dumb provinces, men and women, who, through a dull, drab life think grave and serious things in daily sacrifice—the little church, which has always existed in spirit, small in numbers, great in spirit, almost unknown, but the various and apparent force of action, though it is the very force of France, that which endures in silence while the so-called elite rots away and springs to life again unceasingly."

A Worthy Adversary.

"It is quite certain that in Abd-El-Krim we are not dealing with a sort of feudal lord, but with a man who has given himself over to a lust for plunder and pillage," says the liberal Parisian monthly "Europe." "To the contrary, there is no doubt of his intelligence or his culture. He is a capable leader, through his political and military talents, through his modern, well informed spirit, his energy and his activity to bring some unity in the scattered forces of African Islam. Is there not another policy, a more judicious one, than that of repression against an adversary so worthy of respect and attention?" so asks the paper. "Was it wise in the first place to make an enemy out of him? Europe presses this question to Messieurs Painleve and Briand: "While official France, the France of the League of Nations, mutilated and bled white through a terrible war affirms at Geneva her peaceful intentions, is it not shocking to see at the same time trying to crush by force a little heroic nation that does not ask anything but to live in peace?" It is an incredible blunder," adds Europe, "an injustice that cannot be forgiven. And it will lead to a terrible tomorrow."

Second-Sight Men.

Gathering folklore among the people of Brittany, Maurice Bouché writes that there is a deep-seated mysticism in the peasants and little waiting at the door of the house where the dead have only changed form, and are hovering about in their old haunts visiting their friends and all the family. Bouché says that the dead do not differ a great deal from the folks on the west coast of Ireland, whose strange and weird beliefs were once reported by Gregory and W. J. Yeats. Yeats tells us that there are second-sighted men and women who can see a world all peopled with familiar faces, and that the condition and to whom distance is as nothing. Witness the case of the old woman who told Yeats: "It's about a week ago that I saw a kind of man in a room in the dark and I saw it was my son that I lost—he that went to America—James. He didn't die, he was tipped away—I knew he wasn't dead, for I saw him one day on the road to Gort on a coach and he looked down and he said: 'That's my son, he's dead.' And when I saw him I put his two hands on my face and I never stirred. And he said: 'I'm not far from you now.' For he is with the others near where the river goes down the swallow hole. To see he came, and I think he'll be apt to come again before long. And I don't mind telling you that I saw him head all night and no candle in the room at all."

A Fashion Salon.

The Cardinal Archbishop of Bordeaux upbraids his parishioners in his diocesan bulletin for their lack of true religion. He says that many of them go to church merely to hear mass and have made the church a new medium for the display of their taste in the latest fashions. It seems often to go that way in France. La Brugere already wrote that when the king came to the church to carry royal favor, ladies sat in the king's chapel with velvet tapers before them, ostensibly to enable them to read, but in reality to enable them to be seen and admired. Brissac, the captain of the guard, who hated these hypocrisies, once played a clever trick upon the ladies of the court. The chapel was full and the guards were lined up to receive the king. The captain suddenly stepped forward and ordered the guards to retire, as the king would not come. He then turned to the ladies, except two, at once left the church. As soon as they were gone, Brissac told his soldiers that he was only imitating the hypocrisy of the court, and the guard returned to receive the king. The latter was astonished to see the chapel empty, and laughed much at Brissac's stratagem.

France.

Because France has returned to its prewar existence and Paris is again the gayest city of the continent, Heinrich Wundt says that many of the marks that France has not learned the lesson of the war and lives again without moral law or regard for the future. He adds that many Germans are once and for all incapable of understanding the French people or

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THE ARID LIFE.

A century ago the temperature recommended by medical authorities for hospitals, sick rooms and nurseries was "not below 50 nor above 60." The comfort standard was about 55. But that was with direct radiant heat—open fire places. Today the comfort standard is around 70, but with indirect heating by furnaces and hot water or steam radiators. Direct heat from a fireplace warms objects in the room, including the bodies or clothing of persons in the room, and the air of the room is warmed secondarily by these warmed objects. The heat from a radiator warms the air of the room primarily, and the objects or persons in the room secondarily. That one explanation for the comfort standard is 55, where as it may be 65 or above when the heating is indirect, to give comfort.

But another factor is of greater importance in determining comfort. The amount of moisture in the air is much to do with it. In the winter time the outdoor air has an average relative humidity of from 70 to 80 per cent, and when such air is heated to 10 to 15 degrees the relative humidity is reduced to about 20 per cent. This is very dry indeed, almost as arid as desert air, and as dry as that the air has a dry-ice effect on the woodwork, furniture, piano, flowers, complexion and tempera of persons living in it, and when such air is heated to 10 to 15 degrees the relative humidity is reduced to about 20 per cent. Great Progress of Atlanta Shown by Junior Chamber

The junior chamber of commerce, in furtherance of its Thanksgiving week program, has issued the following statement showing why Atlanta should give thanks:

"For those men who laid the foundations of Metropolitan Atlanta on the smoldering ashes 60 years ago and who by their power of imagination created the tall white buildings which today compose the skyline of our busy city, we should give thanks."

"Atlanta, Georgia's capital and the commercial and financial capital of the new south, is a strategic distributing point. Its location (held by General Sherman to be the key to the south), its superb climate, the wealth of its people and their habit of buying the best, and the fact that in elevation it is the highest city of its size or larger east of Denver—make it one of the outstanding key cities in America."

"The rapid transportation afforded by the eight railroads over whose 14 separate lines 120 trains arrive and depart each day, gives Atlanta access to five principal ports, and every town from Memphis, down the Mississippi to New Orleans, on the gulf, and up the Atlantic coast to Wilmington. Any town within this area is within one night of Atlanta. This is why we are blessed with a thousand different manufactures, and with a branch office of practically every company, of national importance."

"The Atlanta trade territory covers several adjoining states with a combined population of 12,000,000 people and with manufactured products in 1924 worth $3,986,000,000."

"Atlanta is the clearing house for the new south. This city's bank clearings have increased 500 per cent during the past 10 years and this year they have exceeded the clearings of every southern city, including New Orleans. The same thing is true of postoffice receipts. The Federal Reserve bank was located in Atlanta after all surveys proved this location to be the most strategic—the one point from which every town in the southeast could be quickest reached in case of emergency."

"And in the manufacturing of clay products Atlanta is destined to be the ceramic center of America."

"These few facts bring to mind many more advantages and points in which Atlanta excels."

"For all of these blessings, social and industrial, we of Atlanta should give thanks."

Ground-Breaking for Big Yaarab Mosque Is Marked by Impressive Ceremonies

To break ground for the million-dollar Shrine mosque Monday afternoon illustrious Potentate Charles A. Bowen, holding the plow handles, and illustrious Recorder George E. Argard went "back to the farm" and used an old-fashioned plow in the ceremonies. A large crowd of Shriners and friends attended the event.

Impressive ceremonies Monday afternoon marked the ground breaking for Yaarab temple's new million-dollar mosque-auditorium at Peachtree and Kimball streets.

Following a magnificent "victory parade," John A. Hynde, past illustrious potentate, delivered the principal address and illustrious Potentate Charles A. Bowen turned the first shovel of dirt.

The "victory parade," from Trinity and Whitehall to the mosque site, was an impressive affair, composing the divan of the temple, the "million-dollar" band, the degree team, the Oriental band and chautauque members of the organization in Shrine costume.

To further celebrate the success of the mosque fund campaign, Yaarab temple will give a "victory hall" at the Biltmore hotel Friday night. The class which will go over the "hot sands" in the Shrine ceremonial on December 10 will be known as the "victory class."

Assisting in the ground-breaking ceremonies Monday were the following members of the divan: Tom C. Law, illustrious assistant rabbi; W. Frank Luckiesh, illustrious high priest and prophet; John C. Joiner, illustrious oriental guide; James S. Floyd, illustrious treasurer; George E. Argard, illustrious recorder; R. N. Rickett, first ceremonial master; Byron L. Milling, second ceremonial master; Virlyn Moore, marshal; Walter G. Bryant, captain of the guard; Roy S. Mather, outer guard; Fred Woodall, director.

Every detail of the campaign that can be attended to prior to actual solicitation of subscriptions will be looked after before the beginning of the campaign.

The causes that will participate are Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A., Maple Street Community House, Public Health Nurses' association, Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Myrtle park playgrounds, Ladies Society Hospital committee and the Children's clinic.

Rome, Ga., November 23.—(Special.)—Grading of the Rome-Kingsport highway from the city limits to Floyd county line is to be rushed to completion with every available piece of road machinery in the county used to bring this about, according to an agreement reached today by members of the board of trade and revenue.

It is necessary that the preliminary road work have a winter behind it before it can be pushed, and if the work is not rushed bad weather might prevent its being done this winter, it is said.

Several other road matters were discussed by the commissioners at the meeting.

LUTHER DEFENDS LOCARNO TREATIES

Berlin, November 23.—(AP)—Chancellor Luther defended the government's acceptance of the Locarno treaties in an impressive speech in the reichstag today, and requested ratification of the treaties on the ground that the restoration and conservation of genuine peace in Europe was bound to redound to the political and economic advantage of Germany.

His speech dealt with the peace pact and arbitration treaties initiated at Locarno, which he stated, in the last analysis, was an amplification of the League of Nations. The chancellor was given a respectful hearing by all parties and the parliamentary decorum which prevailed was in strange contrast to the acrimonious partisan controversies which have been waged over the Locarno treaties since the German delegates returned from Switzerland.

The adoption of the treaties next Friday by an overwhelming majority appears definitely assured.

Chancellor Luther informed the reichstag that the present cabinet would resign after the treaties have been signed at Locarno, making way for an enlarged coalition government, which he said would be pledged automatically to pursue the policies inaugurated with the adoption of the Locarno treaties.

"Germany's inherent potentialities can only be developed along peaceful lines," he said, "and her presence in the League of Nations will afford her added opportunities for furthering the interests of her people within and without her borders."

He denied that Germany's entry into the league signified a weakening of her political prestige and expressed the conviction that the reasons for joining the league had become more urgent during the last year.

"France, Belgium, Italy and Great Britain had proposed a united front opposed to Germany," he said. "Now all five nations constitute a common community, bound by a treaty which is founded on a complete equality, consideration by these other four powers of a security pact aimed against Germany, which was under serious 'posed of.'"

Who Pays for College Education?

If every student who enters college had to pay the exact cost of the instruction furnished him, higher education would be limited to a favored few.

Who pays? The student himself pays a part—the tuition and fees charged by our colleges and universities.

In endowed institutions like Emory University two-thirds of the cost is paid from the proceeds of funds given by those who feel a duty to future generations. These philanthropists are not always men of wealth. Much of Emory's endowment comes from small gifts, gifts that represent sacrifice as well as saving.

Who profits? The student himself to a large extent. To a far greater extent, society at large. We can best render service to future generations by preparing them to render service to each other.

Emory University can serve only to the extent that its friends provide the necessary endowment.

Modesty Is Thrown to Winds As 'Mystery Letters' Are Read Into Kip Rhinelander Suit

Negro Wife Taken Into Room and Part of Clothing Removed To Determine Color of Skin.

White Plains, N. Y., November 23. (P)—The last conceivable veil of reticence was torn from the Rhinelander annulment suit today.

Not only were the two "mystery"

letters written by Leonard Kip Rhinelander to his negro bride, Alice Bencie Jones, read in open court, but the defendant herself was taken into a private room so that the jury might determine the color of her skin without the usual urbanity and interposed objections to each other's questions, the defendant broke into copious tears and almost suffered hysterics, and women were forcibly removed from the court room when they showed reluctance to give up their seats during the reading of young Rhinelander's letters. The day, however, ended quietly when cross-examination of Rhinelander ended and minor witnesses took their place.

Ends Rhinelander's Torture.

When Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for Mrs. Rhinelander, at length barked: "That's all!" it was the end of almost a week of mental torture for the wealthy young plaintiff. Day after day, he had been subjected to a merciless bombardment of questions on intimate details of his love life, culminating today in the public reading of two of his love letters, whose unprintable nature made it necessary to have the court cleared of women. He was tired when the ordeal was finished. He slumped down in his seat and the minor actors in the drama took up their part.

Mrs. Rhinelander suffered, too. Clinging to her mother's arms, she had left the court room while her husband's letters were being read. She returned, wrapped tightly in a coat, to play an active part herself. Mr. Davis wanted the jury to see for itself just what color her skin was, in an effort to weaken Rhinelander's contention that he thought she was white. At first he wanted the court cleared, but Justice Morschauer suggested that the jury might retire to a private room. Mr. Davis acquiesced and the party, made up of Mr. Davis, Isaac N. Mills, Leonard's attorney, Justice Morschauer, a court stenographer, young Rhinelander, Alice and her mother and the jury filed out. Alice was in tears and shaking with sobs.

Alice Remains in Room.

Ten minutes later the party returned, Alice alone remaining in the jury room. "Was your wife's color just the same as it was at the Marie Antoinette?" asked Davis. "Yes," the witness responded in a low voice.

The "two mystery" letters were centered about events that took place at this hotel in 1921, when Alice and Leonard registered there for a week as man and wife. The threat of their introduction last week had brought two adjournments in order that Mr. Mills and associate counsel might investigate them. Their nature was admittedly so startling that reports rose that the suit might be withdrawn rather than have them revealed. Settlements ranging up to $300,000 were reported but as quickly denied.

Told to Do Worst.

Today, the plaintiff's attorneys returned to court and said: "Do your worst." Before the "mystery" letters were read, Justice Morschauer scanned them and said: "I will give the women in this court an opportunity to leave before these letters are read. I feel that no woman will want to hear the things that are contained in them."

A minority of the women present left, but the rest clung stubbornly to their seats, bringing sharp rebuke from Justice Morschauer.

"I am glad to see that there are some decent women in this court, but if there are not more, I shall have to use my authority and clear the court room," he said.

Order Women Ejected. A few more women left, but others took their places, and when the letters were about to be read, Justice Morschauer ordered all women ejected.

The trial was held up while the women were escorted outside. Only two newspaper women were left, even Alice and her mother having gone out.

Both letters were written from the Cliff hotel in San Francisco in 1922. Parts of them spoke of Leonard's love relations with Alice and of the time they spent at the Marie Antoinette. Young Rhinelander was not abashed at the lurid passages. Although he kept his eyes on the floor part of the time, he answered some of the more intimate questions distinctly. His struggle to control his voice. Finally, he said that he could see nothing wrong in the things he had done.

"No," answered the witness. After brief redirect examination and a cross-examination on minor points, testimony in the afternoon, young Rhinelander was permitted to leave the stand. Alice returned to the court and appeared relieved that the letters had been read, and seemed more cheerful than during the morning.

SENATOR GEORGE EXPLAINS COURT

branches of the various governments of the world or by a body of conservative, consistent judicial precedents. "The standard of justice for nations, no less than men, is possible when we have provided the machinery by which to find it," he said. "This standard may be realized through judicial method rather than legislative action."

Indorse George Court. After Senator George had finished his speech a resolution introduced by Mrs. George O'Beare, Mrs. Thomas Boone and Mrs. John Hornaday was adopted in which the international court of justice or world court was "heartily indorsed" and representatives in congress were requested to assist in its realization without delay.

"Assuring the womanhood of the country that all possible be done to prevent the slaughter of our young manhood."

In his speech Senator George said it is easy to over-estimate the immediate importance of the court as far as the United States is concerned. "It is likely that the United States will in any event resort to the court but infrequently," he said. "It is certain the court will not end war. No court can. Despite our own admirable supreme court, the war between the states came on. The court is not in command of physical means by which to enforce its decrees. Even the supreme court of the United States is without power to compel a sovereign state to comply with its judgments, except possibly by punishing the individual who, for the time being, is the responsible representative of the state. Where nations are litigants reliance must be placed upon that moral sense inherent in mankind."

In answering objections to the court, Senator George said the chief objection is that the law to be administered by the court has not been precisely defined and codified.

"International law can never be brought within the narrow limits of a criminal statute," he said. "It must ever consist of those broad, general principles of justice which should control the conduct of every civilized state in its relations to other nations."

Answers Objections. Senator George said this objection was not sound. "If it compares with the dignity of a great Christian nation to refuse its support to the court upon the ground that the law to be administered has not been precisely defined and codified, so that the nation may insist upon a technical defense as a petty criminal in a common court of law."

In his speech Senator George traced the movements leading up to creation of the world court, reviewed the history of The Hague tribunal, told of the creation of the international board of arbitration and spoke of the creation of the world court by the council of the League of Nations.

"The time is ripe and opportune if we are to have a world court at all to have the court now functioning," Senator George concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Mayor Walter A. Sims, who paid tribute to the ability of Senator George as a lawyer, as a jurist and as a United States senator. Mrs. Norman Sharp presided at the meeting.

Dinner Is Given. Following Senator George's address in the afternoon, the women's club was host to a dinner given by Mrs. Hoke Smith and Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, at an elaborate dinner.

The three guests of honor spoke in favor of senate ratification of the world court protocol. About 150 were present at the dinner, over which Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the club, presided.

the referendum committee and was in the nature of an attack on Councilman Allen. The full text of Mr. Allen's statement follows:

"I don't propose to engage in any new controversy with any individual of the fire department, but inasmuch as he seems to think he is king of this group of men who are my friends, I want to tell him to take another canvass of the same nature as the one he has just made, and tell me how many signatures he gets by eliminating his superior officer."

Think of it. Chief Cody was the only member of the entire fire department who was not scheduled for a proposed raise. Chief Cody was the only man in the fire department who was not considered by the men who conceived the idea to invoke the initiative.

Will the people of Atlanta stand for such discrimination as this? If we let this matter go and try to run a big issue such as this over the head of a department chief, then I believe the best thing to do, and the quicker the better, is to have a mission or city manager form of government.

"I have expressed my opinion about this pay increase for the firemen and I will do the same thing again by declaring myself in favor of the firemen's raise, providing the police department and employees of other departments are given the same consideration."

If the fire committee of city council doesn't stop all this "politics" in the fire department and get down to business to deal with that we have ever had since Atlanta had a fire department. Most of the firemen are doing the right thing by going about their duties in a business-like manner and not using the pressure to attack city council and individuals on the fire committee in an effort to create a settlement in their behalf.

Is it fair to discriminate against Chief Cody by not allowing him the same right to attack city council and individuals on the fire committee as the firemen? Why should the firemen have his name off the petition they circulated among the voters?

If the people vote this raise for the firemen, Chief Cody will not be benefited in any way. Should the people vote in favor of the raise, council cannot pass any resolution that would in any way affect the question. It would be compulsory for council to carry out the wishes of a majority of the voters participating.

present complicated situation. But M. Donnergue prevailed upon him, at least, to consult with his friends and come to a final decision later.

The Painleve government executed a sort of posthumous function, while M. Briand was looking into the political situation, and successfully appealed to the chamber and senate for authority for a new advance of 1,500,000,000 francs by the Bank of France to the state to take care of immediate demands on the treasury. The senate adopted M. Painleve's bill by 173 to 103 and the chamber by a vote of 243 to 44, the national bloc and socialists abstaining.

Nationalists Disapprove. The bill met with the disapproval of the national bloc in the chamber. The nationalist spokesman declared that the bloc could not vote against it, because of France's urgent need, but refused to assist the defunct government to enact one of the measures in its final proposals. With the socialists they abstained and it required two votes before a quorum could be obtained and this bill passed.

It was announced during the course of the debate that the additional advance would not involve the issue of more paper money, but bank officials made it known that if the government wanted more advances it would be necessary to print more bills and raise the limit of circulation.

General Motors car prices are standard

THE FACTORY PRICE of any automobile (usually the price advertised) is not the price you pay. To the factory price will be added a charge for freight, a charge to cover war tax, a charge for conditioning the car for delivery (unloading, cleaning, oiling, etc.)—and, if you buy the car on time, a charge for financing. So remember this:

1. When you buy a General Motors car for cash, you may be sure that the charges for freight, war tax and conditioning are real and fixed. They have not been padded to maintain a factory price, or to allow a price reduction, or to yield an extra profit to the dealer, or to permit an unreasonably large allowance for your used car. General Motors dealers end their profit with the factory price.
2. When you buy a General Motors car on time, the cost is the cash price, plus nothing more than the official GMAC financing charge—always the lowest and now still lower.

General Motors has standardized the prices of its cars to protect both the dealer and the buyer. This is another reason why General Motors offers "the greatest values in automobile history."

JACKETS FIGHT DISADVANTAGE OF BEING FAVORITES

Tarheels Battle Cavaliers In Thanksgiving Classic

Chapel Hill, November 23.—(Special.)—The stage is just about set for the annual gridiron classic here Thanksgiving day between the Universities of North Carolina and Virginia.

It will be the 30th time these rivals of old have met. It will be the 34th year they have played. It will be a contest that promises to beat any of its predecessors—in attendance, color, and general interest.

Both teams have first class records for the season. Carolina has the state title and a perfect southern conference record. Virginia has a conference record marred by only one defeat. Both teams have their men in good shape. All along their playing has been smoother, more finished. They will meet on Emerson field next Thursday in a gridiron battle that should reveal all the strategy, all the fine points in the gentle art of football.

Comparative Scores. Those who take comparative scores as a criterion find the two teams are pretty evenly matched, with Carolina having perhaps the shade of an edge. There are only two teams which both Carolina and Virginia have met this year. Carolina beat Maryland, 16 to 0, while Virginia defeated the Old Line, 6 to 0. Carolina beat V. M. I., 23 to 11, while Virginia beat the Cadets, 18 to 10. That can be taken for what it is worth, for, admittedly, comparative scores don't count much when these two old rivals meet. It will be a game in which breaks will count a great deal either way.

That matter of seats. So far all applications have been filled that have come to the University Athletic association. Naturally the choice seats are now very scarce. Both ends of Emerson field have been enclosed with temporary stands and the south bleachers have been stretched out. There will be seats for some over 15,000 and standing room for several thousand more. Seats for which applications have been made have been snuffed out during the week. Postmaster Herndon says the Chapel Hill postoffice force has worked overtime and that, despite the tedious task of Chapel Hill with promptness, registering each package, as required, the parcels were dispatched from

HARVARD MAN WINS TITLE

New York, November 23.—(AP)—Willard L. Tibbets, of Harvard, won the intercollegiate varsity cross-country championship today in record time of 30 minutes, 34 seconds for the six-mile chase. MacAuley Smith, of Yale, who won the event a year ago with the best previous time of 31:24, could finish no better than 11th this afternoon.

Tibbets, two-mile intercollegiate champion, after losing and winning the lead a half dozen times during the race, out-spirited James C. Loucks, of Syracuse, in the last 300 yards, to win by barely a step. A. S. Hillman, of Maine, second a year ago, was 20 yards behind Loucks in third place after having set the pace for more than 100 starters during the first half of the grid.

Finishing runners in second, seventh, eighth, 12th and 18th positions, Syracuse university easily wrested from Pittsburgh team honors which they yielded to the Panthers a year ago, scoring 47 points against 84 for the champions of 1924. It was Syracuse's third victory in the past four years.

G. I. A. A. TITLE CLAIMED BY RIVERSIDE

Gainesville, Ga., November 23.—(Special.)—While the Riverside Cadets do not officially close their season until after the game with Richmond academy at Augusta Thursday, the Cadets have already established claim to the football title of the G. I. A. A.

The last G. I. A. A. opponent was met last Friday in Red Barron's Moore eleven and the Aggies were swept aside, 19 to 12, thus leaving the Cadets undefeated in their association. In that respect they are on equal footing with Lanier High of Macon, which yet has a G. I. A. A. obstacle to remove in Columbus high. That game will be played Thursday in Macon.

If Lanier wins and there is every reason to expect just such an outcome, Dictator William Alexander is expected to order a play-off between the two schools. A unique feature of the title race results from Gordon institute engaging in a tie game with both Lanier and Riverside.

However, Riverside wiped out the sting of its tie engagement by decisively defeating University School of Atlanta, which in due turn had won from Gordon institute, 19 to 6.

Riverside's complete G. I. A. A. record for the season is as follows: Riverside, 0; Gordon, 0; Riverside, 25; G. M. C., 0; Riverside, 14; U. S. B., 0; Riverside, 21; Tech High, 6; Riverside, 19; Monroe, 12.

REAVES HEADS WAYCROSS CLUB

Waycross, November 23.—Dr. W. P. Reavis has been named president of the Waycross Golf club for the coming year. Dr. Reavis is a charter member of the club, and has served as vice president and on the board of directors of the club.

Other officers elected were: vice president, H. C. Bunn; treasurer, L. E. Pedrick; secretary, H. A. Stallings; directors, E. K. Bennis, J. D. Mitchell and Jerome Crawley.

Following is the twelfth article of a series that tells the story of the life of Captain Red Grange, of Illinois, acclaimed as the greatest gridiron runner in the world. It is written from interviews with Grange by James Braden, and is Grange's life story.

BY JAMES BRADEN, Former Yale and All-American Fullback.

"This is my real story. I have authorized it for publication."—Harold Grange.

XII. "FOOTBALL IS LIKE LIFE." At the end of the 1923 football season, Red Grange at last was facing some sort of real life after his early struggles. Rewards came thick and fast in the shape of attention, compliments and that supreme type of adoration that exists only in school circles for the football heroes. He also faced many responsibilities in his position near the center of the stage. Most of the growing boys of the country had read about him and were beginning to inquire how he lived and what he did. Not a few young women were attracted to the possibilities of knowing this boy with dark curly red hair and brilliant brown eyes either personally or through correspondence. His daily mail became a burden. Of those letters, Red always answered the ones from the boys.

"I've liked and been interested in boys since high school days," he said. "The young smart aleck I have no use for, but what is more wonderful than a kid in grade school trying to become an athlete?"

"Those chaps ask some of the funniest questions. I believe if I told them that it would be good stuff to walk on their hands every morning to improve their speed, they would do it."

Live Regular Life.

"There is only one way that I know to become an athlete. Get lots of sleep and live a regular, normal, healthy life. Keep away from the white lights and eat plain food. Don't eat too much meat. Any vegetable is good. Spinach and potatoes are excellent. Chew the food well. Don't smoke. Don't drink liquor. Don't be a loafer on the street. Think that you will come to the top and you'll get there. Track work, such as jogging, dogtrotting and sprinting are the best ways to build up endurance."

Admirer of Gipp.

"I remember how I used to admire George Gipp, of Notre Dame, when I was in high school. He seemed to me to be the greatest fellow in the world. I tried to do as he did on the football field and felt confident that eventually I'd succeed."

"Zuppke tells us ever so often how many rewards come from playing this game of football. It couldn't be paid for in money if anybody should try to pay for it. The benefits are in character making. It would be a good thing if every boy should play some football. Whether you win or lose doesn't count so much. You get used to standing up under punishment and stress. Everybody gets kicked around like a football sometime during life. Football is like life. One fellow

CORNELL-PENN CLASH EAST'S FEATURE

New York, November 23.—(AP)—Comparative scores of teams featuring the final weeks of the eastern football would indicate Pennsylvania is 49 points better than Cornell, that Colgate is 35 better than Brown, and that Columbia is 34 better than Syracuse.

These eleven meet in their annual battles Thanksgiving day. Army and Navy will lock next Thursday, while Boston College and Holy Cross are playing at Boston.

Dartmouth conquered Brown 14 to 0, and Pennsylvania won from the same team, 9 to 0. Then Dartmouth swamped Cornell, 62 to 13.

The Cornell-Penn clash at Philadelphia is expected to prove as thrilling as if the eleven were facing each other with unopposed goal lines. Colgate has gone through its schedule without defeat but was held to a Columbia's advantage in figures over Syracuse is derived as follows: Army conquered Notre Dame 27 to 0, and Columbia defeated Army 21 to 7. Notre Dame and Penn State played to a scoreless tie and Syracuse won from Penn State, 7 to 0.

The Army, from the season's scores, is about 100 points better than the navy, if one considers that Michigan beat the Middles lost, 54 to 0. But on the other hand the Navy tied Princeton, which beat Yale after Yale humbled the Army.

Fisher Will Retire. Bob Fisher, coach of Harvard football, again has announced his determination to retire. It developed yesterday that Fisher has made the announcement to the team before it went into the Yale game to play its old rival to a scoreless tie.

Fisher reconsidered last year after announcing that he was through. He plans to put all his time into business.

TENNESSEE DOG LEADING HUNT

West Baden, Ind., November 23.—(AP)—Ona Stride, a hound belonging to Burton Brothers, Silver Point, Tenn., was leading by 30 points at the end of the first day's running of the chase futurity stake for $1,000 of the National Fox Hunters' association. Ona is by Big Stride-Minnie Lee. Lucille, entered by J. L. Kanatzar, of Richmond, Ky.; T. Love, entered by J. T. Hayes, of Dublin, Miss.; Surround, entered by Dr. A. W. and D. D. Patton, of Tusculooosa, Ala.; Houns How Peen, and Rock Bransome, both entered by J. W. Hayes, of Nashville, Tenn., are tied for second with 40 points each.

Clinker, entered by Phil Weissinger, of Shelbyville, Ky.; and Clifton, entered by Robert Rodes, of Bowling Green, Ky., tied for third place with 30 points each.

The running of the chase futurity will be continued on Tuesday and completed Wednesday, followed by the all-age stake for the national championship, to be run off Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

MESSER WILL AGAIN COACH WILLIAMS FIVE

Professor Guerdon N. Messer, athletic director at Williams college, will again coach the basketball team here this winter. He has turned out strong quintets for the Purple for the last two years. Prospects are fairly encouraging for the coming season as seven letter men remain in college. Practice has already started, but the squad will be increased, as soon as the football season is completed.

8 TEAMS END CONFERENCE CAMPAIGN

New Orleans, November 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Eight southern conference football teams have finished their conference schedules and must stand or fall on the results recorded. North Carolina State, Louisiana State and Mississippi A. and M. are all through and while five others have engagements left on file they cannot improve nor mar conference rating.

Thulane, with five conference victories and no defeat, has one game left to play, with Centenary at Shreveport Thanksgiving. Other Thanksgiving games match "Ole Miss" against Millsaps, Clemson against Furman and Maryland and Johns Hopkins. The University of South Carolina is idle Thursday but plays Centre at Columbia Saturday.

The other members of the undefeated quartet in which Tulane claims a place, must play the string out in the organization. Alabama challenges Georgia at Birmingham, North Carolina and Virginia play at Chapel Hill and Washington and Lee meets Florida at Jacksonville.

A program of years is followed in the Thanksgiving football menu calling for Georgia Tech to oppose Auburn at Atlanta, V. P. I. and V. M. I. at Knoxville, Vanderbilt and Sewanee at Nashville, and Tennessee and Kentucky at Lexington.

STALLINGS ON WAY SOUTH

Waycross, Ga., November 23.—(Special.)—George Stallings, manager of the Rochester baseball club, has been invited to come to Waycross and confer with local fans in charge of arrangements to bring the Rochester club to Waycross for its training season.

Two citizen committees are working on the proposition, and are expected to have a report ready to present to Manager Stallings when he arrives here.

Alexander Drills Charges Against Auburn Formations And Passes; Sprick Is Out

BY GEORGE CONGDON.

A top-heavy favorite by reason of its campaign so far this season, Tech Monday knuckled down to the hard work of overcoming that disadvantage of being a favorite in the grand finale of Tech's football season, the Auburn game Thanksgiving Day.

Tech men have worked hard physically, but have loafed in spirit for a week. They've given all their strength in the scrimmages and signal drills and sessions battling the tackling dummy. But they have the idea all through this practice that Auburn is meat. Monday they appeared to have parked their encumbrance of self-satisfaction in their dressing room.

The practice was a long one that brought in everything in practice except scrimmaging. There was a dummy scrimmage with defensive play against forward passes. There were practice kick-offs, punts and a long signal drill. Besides this there was a session with the tackling dummies and finally a lopsided around the track before going in.

Every man, but one, was in uniform and in the midst of the practice Monday. The one on the sidelines was George Sprick, who has a bad knee that will keep him out for the remaining few days of the season. Dick Wright, halfback, and Captain Wycoff's understudy, was again in uniform after recovering from an attack of flu.

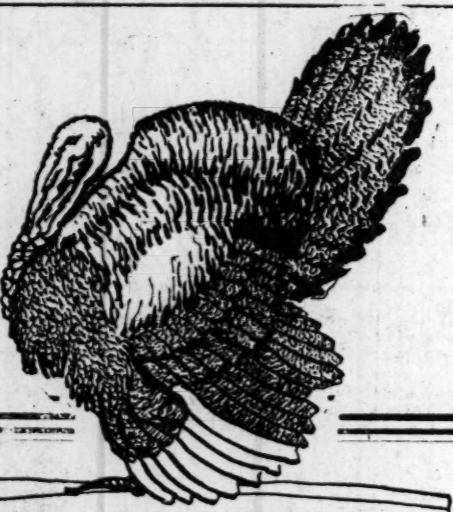

Six Starters Certain.

Six positions for the starting lineup of Tech against Auburn are settled. Forrester and Godwin, guards; Merkle, end; Williams, quarterback; and Captain Wycoff will play the entire game, unless injury in the game prevents it. The sixth man to start will be Six Carpenter, another member of the Golden Tornado who finishes his collegiate football career with the Thanksgiving game. Carpenter, however, probably will not play more than a few minutes, because of the injured leg which has kept him but since the Alabama fracas three weeks ago.

The rest of the first team is likely to start. It means that Tech's starting lineup probably will look like this: Merkle and Marshall, ends; Forrester and Godwin, guards; Wycoff, center; Williams, quarterback; Captain Wycoff and Barren, halfbacks, and Sam Murray, fullback.

There will be another long practice this afternoon with signal drill, dummy scrimmaging and running down under punts. Then Wednesday the squad will finish off with a light, short signal drill to keep them on edge. A crowd of 25,000 appears to be assured for the Auburn game, a crowd that will rank for color and brilliance with the greatest crowds that Tech has had on Grant field. Of course, the Tech-Georgia crowd of 32,000 tops the record, but the Auburn-Tech crowd should be as colorful, for Tech-Auburn games have been classics for years. In years for Tech, the Tornado has always stiffened its breeze for the Tigers, and when Tech has been lousy and Auburn among those in the cellar the Plainsmen have stiffened perceptibly for Tech.

A member of the government, remarkable for his resemblance to his noted father, is said recently to have visited a woman in his constituency who is 100 years old. Her memory is a little weak and she thought he was his father. "We are all very proud of you," she told him, "but what a pity you have such a stupid son."—London Tid Bits.

PETRELS RESUME PRACTICE FOR CHATTANOOGA GAME

50,000 TO SEE GRANGE RUN THURSDAY

Chicago, November 23.—(AP)—Professional or amateur, the public is so heated up over Harold "Red" Grange that a capacity crowd of 50,000 persons is assured when he makes his professional debut with the Chicago Bears in the Chicago National league park Thanksgiving morning.

When the 28,000 reserved seats were placed on sale today, two lines of purchasers, each a block long, formed at 10 o'clock and seven hours later appeared to be even longer. Traffic was tied up by the crowds which jammed the downtown ticket office until half a dozen policemen were assigned to keep the lines in order.

The 28,000 seats were sold before night, those falling into the hands of scalpers selling for $15 and some for $25. The standing room and bleacher seats will be placed on sale tomorrow.

Nobody wanted a ticket because it was the Bears and Cardinals playing—they all wanted tickets for "the Grange game."

Because of the tremendous advance sale and indications of a standing room capacity, the latest figures indicate that the attendance will be around 50,000 with the gate receipts $300,000. All this means gold for Red's pockets, for his contract provides for a general cut of the gate receipts.

William L. Veeck, president of the Cubs, said the interest in Grange's appearance had never been equalled on the world series, and so many telephone calls came to the Cubs' office that they were obliged to close up.

AVERA SIGNED FOR FLORIDA GO

Jacksonville, Fla., November 23.—(Special).—Ed P. Corley, matchmaker, announced today that he has signed Larry Avera, southern junior welterweight champion, with Jud Horning, Savannah, for a 10-round bout as the feature of a fight show for the night of December 1.

The show will be staged in the Duval county armory, for which Corley is matchmaker. Avera has fought a number of times in Jacksonville and has always pleased the crowds with his fast action and hard hitting.

Dartmouth Must Encounter Washington To Name Champ

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

There is no way to choose a championship football team this year unless Dartmouth will go to Pasadena on New Year's day and play Washington. Dartmouth added one more to a sensational string of victories when the big green team beat Chicago with a score of 33-7, and firmly established the right to be called eastern champion. Princeton, after an indifferent early season, played championship football, so far as the big three is concerned, by completely overwhelming both Harvard and Yale. All of the other big teams have had their upsets.

In the far west Washington university beat Stanford and then broke the five-year winning streak of California, defeating the Golden Bears by scoring a touchdown in the last three minutes of play. This was one of the most desperately contested games of the year. Several times the huskies smashed down within California's five-yard line, only to be stopped. Once Elmer Tesreau, the Washington giant, was stopped a foot from the goal line.

There are two Tesreaus on the Washington team, Louis and Elmer, brothers and nephews of Jeff Tesreau, the famous ball player. The Washington football Tesreaus are every inch as big as Jeff. It was Louis who started the series of dashes that scored on California, and Elmer who carried the ball over with a 20-yard sprint after crashing through the line. Like Dartmouth, Washington is a big team, but uses plenty of speed, and unlimited variety of deceptive plays, and much forward passing. In George Wilson, Washington has one of the best halfbacks in the country.

Big Purse on Decline.
The days of the big guarantee is nearly over in boxing circles. It was clever Jack Kearns who showed the champions hit up into the hundreds of thousands. Kearns was a business man. When bidding was going on for the Dempsey-Carpenter fight Kearns met Descamps, who managed Carpenter, and told Descamps to hold out for $200,000 for Carpenter's end.

"You'll get two hundred thousand for Carpenter and I'll get three hundred thousand for Dempsey," said Kearns.

"Ab, but I have calculated very carefully to get $300,000 for Carpenter," said Descamps, who can use a little English when he wants to. "You tell Rickard $200,000, and don't say another word," said Kearns positively.

"You'll get it. I'm going over now and show Rickard how it's good business to pay half a million for the fight."

Descamps took Kearns' advice and demanded $200,000. Kearns saw Rickard and told him he could draw over a million dollars by advertising the fight for a half-million-dollar purse.

"You're crazy," said Tex. Kearns sat down and figured it all out, and Rickard came through with the half million. The fight drew over a million and a half.

Advertising that the fight was for a half-million dollars paid that first time. But Rickard felt an opposition to big purses growing, and afterwards he never gave a big purse any more publicity than he had to.

Little Shows Pay.
Rickard plans running a fight show a week in this new Madison Square garden. He has found that there is more money in running fairly good shows, one a week, than in ballyhooing a championship fight six months and trying for one gate. Rickard made a lot of money in old Madison Square garden. He lost a barrel on some of his biggest outdoor bouts and on the Dempsey-Brennan fight in the garden.

Rickard takes a good deal of interest in it, and from it's business end. When he likes a fighter he boosts him along. Rickard took a liking to Midget Smith, who came into the old garden years ago and asked Tex to give him a chance in a preliminary bout. Midget made good, and Rickard boosted him along until he was topping the card and drawing down good money, and after a little while looked like a coming champion.

Rickard took a liking to Firpo because Firpo was willing to take advice and because he tried to fight. He matched Firpo up for a battle with Dempsey, which happened to be the most sensational heavyweight fight even seen in a ring. Firpo went home discouraged, after being knocked out, and when Rickard sent for him a year or so later he came north fat and out of condition, but perfectly willing to fight Wills. Rickard's confidence in Firpo might have been justified by the outcome of the fight with Wills but for a trick played on Firpo.

There always has been a suspicion that the fake reform attack on Firpo for weeks before his fight with Wills was started in Wills' interest and was a very crafty and effective way to make sure Wills wouldn't be knocked out of a Dempsey match later, in any case, the daily attacks on Firpo, dragging him from his training camp for court appearances, threats of deportation or imprisonment, all of which vanished into thin air the moment the fight was over, made it impossible for Firpo to train. Sitting on the rubbing table in his quarters that day before the fight Firpo told Argentine newspaper men that he did not care whether he won or didn't care if he was knocked out as long as he could complete his contract and leave a country that had treated him so badly.

Firpo has spent a year or so abroad and in his Argentine home. But Tex Rickard still thinks there's a fight in the wild bull. He is after Firpo to start hard training and come back, to be matched with the best heavyweights in sight and eventually to be ready for the title. Probably Firpo will try it, but he'll never be champion. He might have made it when he was full of fire and fury a few years ago. Dempsey knocked that out of him. Louis could fight when he was poor and rugged. He has lived luxuriously too long to start again the way he did before. But if he'll come back and fight a bunch of heavies the way he did in his first start he'll draw the crowds. He adds a lot to the scenery from bell to bell.

Long Signal Drill Opens Week's Work; Robertson Orders Scrimmage Today

BY ALTON REDFEARN.

With ideal football weather, the Oglethorpe Petrels went to work yesterday afternoon determined to condition themselves for the two remaining games. On Thanksgiving the University of Chattanooga will be met in Chattanooga, and on December 5 the Petrels will wind up the season in Miami, Fla., when they play Rollins college.

The Oglethorpe-Mercer game is now a thing of the past, but in that game several things stand out, and to forget them will be hard. Probably the most important was the losing of the game for it knocked into shreds the Petrel chances for the S. I. A. A. crown, but there still remains the consolation that the Stormy Birds still rank as high as any other member of the association. Oglethorpe has won five S. I. A. A. contests and has lost only one, so as yet they are on top, according to percentage. The game with the University of Chattanooga Thursday will no doubt have an important bearing as to who will be wearers of the crown for the season of 1925.

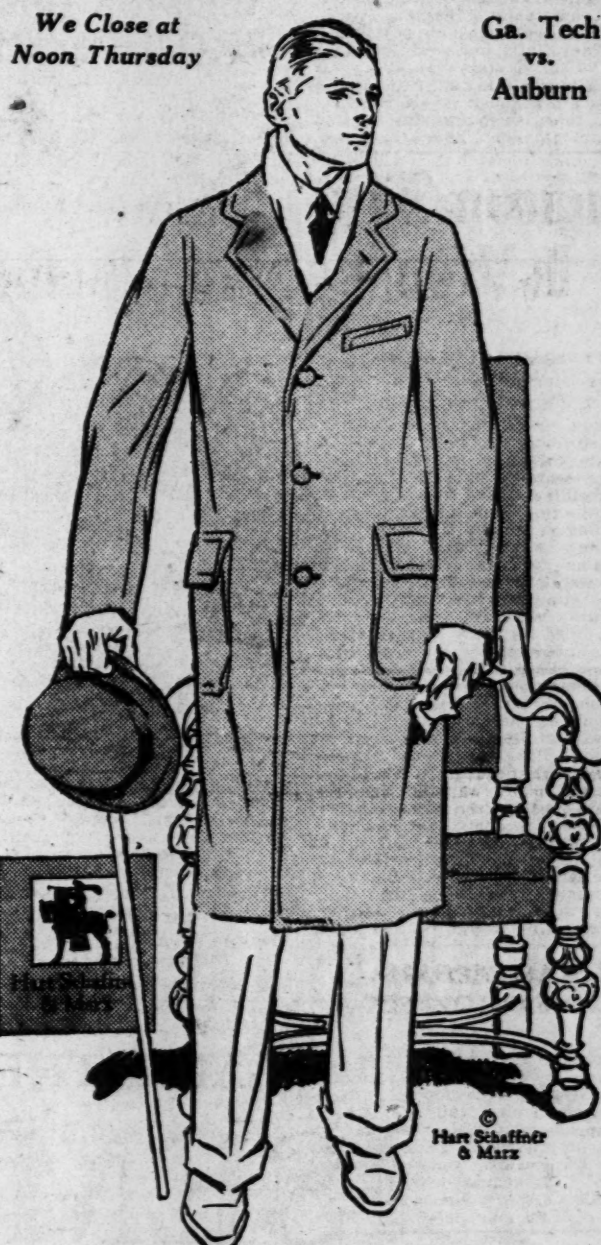

Oglethorpe will go into the battle Thursday with the dope against it. Mercer was defeated by Chattanooga early in the season by the score of 12 to 7. Chattanooga has a great team, as is indicated by the success enjoyed thus far by it, having won the biggest portion of the games played. For the last two weeks it has not engaged in a game, and, therefore, has had plenty of time to learn new plays, which makes all the Petrel scouting no good. Everything points in Chattanooga's favor, but Coach Robertson and his band of Petrels are determined.

A long signal drill was the order of practice yesterday afternoon. The first and second teams were kept busy and there was no letup. After the drill was over Coach Robertson lined them all up across the field and had them charge 10 yards and stop, and then it would be another charge for 10 yards and stop until the entire field was traversed eight times. The workout was concluded with a 100-yard dash.

The last scrimmage of the year will take place this afternoon. The freshmen will oppose the varsity. The season, in so far as games are concerned, is over for the freshmen team, but they were kept out to help condition the varsity. Coach Chestnutt gave them the Chattanooga plays and today's workout will include both offensive and defensive scrimmages.

Boys' High-Duvall Game May Be Cancelled; No Field

On the eve of their departure for Jacksonville and the game with Duvall High school, officials at Boys' High announced that there is a probability of the game being cancelled, and that it would at least be postponed.

The game was originally scheduled for Thursday, but on that date Florida and Washington and Lee play their annual Turkey day game there. There was an argument as to which would use the field and Duvall, lost out. Duvall officials then wanted to play Boys' High on the Saturday after Thanksgiving, but in that case it would rush Boys' High for the game with Tech High here next Tuesday.

Yesterday the Boys' High athletic committee sent a wire to Duvall stating that they would play either this Friday or next Saturday week, if in case Duvall does not agree to this, Boys' High will not make the trip. Coach Boyd stated Monday night that if his team did not go to Jacksonville, he would attempt to secure a game with Newnan or Marietta High, the game to be played Thanksgiving morning.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, and who was entitled to a full share of the second place money coming to the players of his team, declined to accept the same. He wired his declination to the commissioner, advising him that the players were entitled to all of the money coming to them.

The Man Who Buys His Clothes As We Buy Them For Him

The fellow we have in mind when we go buying is the man who knows what a dollar is worth. We don't expect to get something for nothing; and neither does he.

The trade we try mighty hard to get and keep is made up of the sort of fellows who expect us to buy for him as he would buy for himself if he were running this store.

Value, to him, means a lot more than a merely plausible price for a merely passable suit of clothes. Value, as he sees it, means service in everyday use, plus authentic style, plus honest materials and honest workmanship.

No maker of clothing stands a Chinaman's chance with us unless he comes through on every count without any 'out' about it. So whatever we sell is GOOD all the way through.

Good, we mean, in the details the customer seldom knows where to look for; but we know—and we certainly look!

On the understanding that what you mean by VALUE is what we also mean, we recommend these v-a-l-u-e-s.

SMITHIES LEAVE TODAY TO MEET ARKANSAS CHAMPS

Zebras Boast Fourteen Letter Men; Lines Equal, Smithie Backfield Light

BY BEN COTHMAN.

Two Smithie teams will leave the Terminal station this afternoon at 4:40 o'clock for Pine Bluff, Ark., where they will encounter the Pine Bluff High school in a Turkey day feature. This will mark Tech High's first long invasion of the season, and hopes are high for a victory over the Pine Bluff team, which has not been beaten but once in the last three seasons.

Only a little time has been allotted the Smithies for practice this week, and a light workout was held yesterday afternoon, and the team will engage in a short signal drill before it leaves this afternoon. All of the men are in fine shape, none of them having been hurt in last Friday's game with Greenville.

So far this season Tech High has lighter backfield, while the Zebras' will average 150 pounds.

Smithies Not Weak.
Tech High has several men that will bear watching by the Zebras. Buster Cook, 140-pound halfback, broke loose several times in the Greenville game last Friday, making long gains around end two to his runs being 22 and 27 yards in length. His running mate, Waugh, was also making a good job of his share of the ball carrying Friday. The other man whom it will pay Pine Bluff to watch is Parshall, big fullback. Parshall was kept out of the center part of last Friday's game, but played the last quarter, and ripped big holes in the opposing line.

In the line, there are two big men who will be able to stop almost anything that comes their way. Royston, former all South Georgia center, and George O'Brien, 105-pound tackle, have been good in game this season, and will be right on Thursday.

Following are the line-ups and weights of the two teams:

Gridiron Title of Emory Is Won by Junior-Seniors
BY SANDY CLOWER.
In the curtain-raiser to the grand finale of Emory's grid season, the Sophomore eleven had to be content with a scoreless tie, which their aged rivals, the Reds, handed them to cap the season with. The last and most thrilling game of the season was played in the afternoon and resulted in a victory for the Junior-Seniors over the hard-fighting Freshmen. This game gave the Junior-Seniors the unquestioned title of "Champs of Emory" and was the first time in four years that any team on the Emory grid has won a clear title to the championship. In past years the season ended with two teams tied for high honors.

A game of punts, fumbles, passes and lacrimae and runs is about all that can be said in describing the morning embroilment. The line of the Freshmen held the plunging second-year backs, and many was the time that the Sophs had to boot the oval out of danger. The Sophs broke loose in the final frame in a frantic effort to keep the ignominy of even a tie with the Freshmen from being their lot, but they were too tardy in starting their aggressive activities and the

GEORGETOWN'S WIN ACCLAIMED

Georgetown university alumni in Atlanta and nearby sections were busy Sunday and Monday in flooding the university with messages of congratulations following Georgetown's victory Saturday over Fordham's football eleven by a score of 27 to 0.

Along with newspaper accounts of the Georgetown victory over Fordham came flashes that Center had defeated Georgetown, meaning the Georgetown (Ky.) team and not the Georgetown university team, although the news accounts of the game left Georgetown university alumni to wonder if the schedules had been mixed up.

The Constitution was besieged with requests for information to clear up the apparently conflicting reports, and it was sometime before the sports department was able to furnish correct information.

While Center was defeating the eleven from Georgetown, Ky., Georgetown university, at Washington, D. C., was sweeping the Fordham eleven in front of its marches down the field. Georgetown university earlier in the season defeated Center college by an overwhelming score.

Thus the tangle is cleared.

There Wasn't Any Score.
East Lake Plans.
Counted Out On His Feet.

EVERY newspaper man hears early in his career a story of a cub reporter, who, sent to cover a sermon in a church, strolled back to his office to report that "there is no story to write because the meeting broke up in a free-for-all fight."

Now that story is hard to believe, but its exact counterpart came to our attention Monday through Julian Griffin, an efficient young man who helps conduct the sports page of The Constitution. Mr. Griffin didn't do anything like this, and we do not believe he ever would do such a thing, but he did have such a thing happen to him.

AMONG the personnel of The Constitution's staff is a dusky-hued young man named Robert. Robert is very much interested in football, especially when operated by members of his own race, so he went Saturday to view Atlanta university in action, allowed to go with the express understanding that he telephone Mr. Griffin after the game and relate details of the game.

Robert promised, but he didn't call. Mr. Griffin waited until nearly midnight for Robert to fulfill his agreement, but he didn't. Monday when he came to the office Mr. Griffin wanted to know what was the trouble, and received the astonishing answer that there was no score to telephone because the game was not finished.

"It broke up in a argument," was Robert's explanation, for which he certainly wins a leg on the cut-glass football.

THE East Lake Country club will carry on in improvised buildings until the beautiful structure destroyed Sunday by fire can be replaced. Announcement was made Monday that the clubhouse will be opened Wednesday to care for both men and women members of the club who play golf.

The building will be heated by steam. Capital City and Druid Hills clubs generously offered the use of their courses for East Lake members, but the offer was not accepted because the East Lake clubhouse will be available and ample for temporary quarters, it was said.

K. O. BILLY DUGGAN, the Georgia heavyweight, who lost to Wild K. Bill Reed in Chattanooga by a technical knockout, is slowly recovering use of his vocal chords after having had them practically put out of commission when the referee counted him out as he stood fighting Reed. He wants to fight Reed again and would not be averse to a bout with the referee who messed up his record with such a weird decision. Duggan maintains he was all right when ruled out of the scrap. The only thing wrong, he said, was a pain in the stomach which would not have lasted long. When he stooped over to caress the aching region, he says, the referee decided he was practically out and stopped the fracas by awarding Reed the decision.

COBB REJECTS WINTER JOB

Augusta, Ga., November 23.—(AP)—To Cobb today confirmed reports that he has rejected "one of the most attractive offers" he has ever received to manage a baseball team in Florida during the winter season.

The offer was made, Cobb said, by the Coral Gables development company, which wanted him to pilot its team from the bench.

It would take a train as long as from Washington, D. C., to New Haven, Conn., to haul one average day's output of the bituminous coal mines of this country.

ALL-STAR JOB TOO BIG--YOST

Chicago, November 23.—(AP)—Fielding H. Yost, for 25 years football coach at the University of Michigan, is of the opinion that selection of an all-American football team is too much of a job to be undertaken by any individual or any group of football experts.

He declares that no matter what his opinion is, there will be no fewer than 1,000 all-American teams chosen. "As Walter Camp has stated to me more than once during the last five years of his life, this job of selecting an all-American was growing more and more difficult because of the great number of good football men in America."

"I feel that there can be no plan of selecting an all-American team, or an all-Pacific coast team, for a single man or a group of men in those sections has had some chance of seeing and knowing the abilities of the football men included or covered in their selections."

BEN FRIEDMAN NAMED CAPTAIN

OXFORD BAGS HIDE STURDY LIMBS

BY FRANK GETTY.

New York, November 23.—(Special.)—With the gates to Drake field locked tight and all spectators barred from the playing field, the Orange and Blue Plainsmen went through their paces Monday afternoon in next to the last workout of the season in preparation for the Thanksgiving classic with Coach Alexander's Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech.

From observation around the freshmen quarters after the gridders reached the gymnasium it was noticeable that the Rats had been subjected to plenty of rough treatment at the hands of the Morey charges. It was learned from these battered freshmen that they had been on the firing line against the varsity. It was also learned that the varsity men had been busy all the afternoon, laboring diligently to stop the hammering freshmen backs who were again on the offensive throughout the afternoon in a regular hammer and tong scrimmage.

Couch Morey was still busy building a defense to pit against the Georgians to stop the Tech backs as they hit hard behind one of the strongest lines in the country. This has been the program of the Tiger coaches since the Vanderbilt game. With Crane and Green getting more distance to their kicks and with a strong defense, the Auburnites will perhaps resort to kicking and taking a chance at holding the Atlantans on downs.

Bucksot Williams is an ace in the hole. Every Auburn man that journeys to the Grant field stadium Thursday will wait with no little anxiety for the ball to get in position for the toe artist to try his skill at the uprights for a placement.

The game Thursday promises to be a duel of placement kickers—a duel between the Williams boys—Ernest Williams ready to try for the three-pointer from the Auburn ramparts, while Ivan Williams will be heeled with the same intention should the occasion necessitate.

Plans and preparations are being completed Monday night for the biggest football rally, to be held Tuesday night, that has been witnessed on the Auburn campus this season.

JOANNA

BY H. L. GATES

He laughed pleasantly. Prince Michael was always pleasant, this Russian who had found nothing in his thirty-five years to make him otherwise except on such temporary occasions as when outwitted in some amorous adventure. It was a pleasantness, though, that impressed as a mask. The night before Joanna had known well there would have been no wedding formalities if she had found herself in Genoa with him.

"What else would you have?" he wanted to know. "We have no wars to fight and no work to do. There is nothing left but pastime. People used to write poems and read Shakespeare. Rotten time they had of it. Today we invent pleasures to be built upon our senses. That's more reasonable and it involves a learned knowledge of who belongs to who and what's the chances of taking her away from him? But we were talking of this architect fellow. Tell me about him, please. Seems to enjoy working at something."

"You'll have to satisfy my own curiosity first," Joanna declared. "Perhaps you'll send for the 'esteemed journal.' I'd like to know what is being said of him. He was a very struggling student when I saw him last."

An attendant quickly produced a copy of L'Echo which bore, that morning's date, Michael pointed to a paragraph in the column of the new arrivals at the various resorts along the fashionable coast. Both Kenilworth and Yvonne watched her furtively when, with a murmured "Pardon!" she fastened her eyes on the short item.

"Among the bookings on the Blue Express at Calais yesterday was the distinguished young American architect, John Wilmore, who comes from a visit to London for an indefinite stay. He has made reservations at the Las Palmiers. Mr. Wilmore's recent achievement of fame has been extremely interesting. It is understood that a year or so ago he was unknown. American capitalists suddenly appreciated the great merits of his daring conception of war memorials in which are included some startling conventional features which have caused international discussion among artists and scholars generally. It is believed his work will be a valuable contribution not only to America, but to society and the world in general."

The paragraph explained the knowledge of the others that John was coming; that he had arrived, for the Blue Express came in with the morning. But it did not explain why he had not notified her. Something about it all quivered at her lips, briefly.

"Extraordinary," Kenilworth remarked when she put the paper aside, "how a chap with nothing but a dream can suddenly stumble upon recognition and success. We all remember Mr. Wilmore in New York. If I remember, Miss Manners took occasion to be provoked with him."

"Then it was more than an acquaintance," Prince Michael declared. "One is never provoked with an acquaintance. We won't intrude upon that aspect, Mademoiselle," he added, to Joanna. "As you will probably present him, I'd like to know how he got on so well."

"I'm afraid I can't tell you much more than people generally know," she replied. "It came about after I left America with Yvonne. I ran away, you know, because no one I knew there had any confidence in me."

Prince Michael detected a seriousness as of some repressed plaint, and thought it needed observance. He sought her hand, and would have put his over it, obvious to the others at the table. Joanna brought her hand away, quietly. She went on:

"Before then we had been quite good friends. I remember he had some plan for a memorial, something he wanted some day to build. I was never interested, much, because, it wasn't anything I could understand, or wanted to. I remember, though, he objected to its being called a 'war' memorial. It was to be something commemorating soldiers themselves. All kinds of soldiers I think—not only our own, but of other countries as well. Somehow he's made it known about, I suppose. Not when you have a mind to talk to him about it, you will know almost as much as I do."

"Morbidity idea, though," the prince observed. "I can't imagine anything I'd run away from quicker than a reminder of that sort. Sentimental though. I suppose they'll always be doing things of the kind."

"The striking feature of his conception," Yvonne remarked, "seems to be his offering of a woman, a young woman, as the feature inspiration of all soldiers and putting her, instead of the customary fighting figure, on his highest pedestal. Others have given tribute to the fighter himself. He proposes a monumental structure which shall draw attention to what soldiers fight for." Of Joanna she asked: "Isn't that the idea?"

"Yes," Joanna agreed. "That wasn't his original plan, but he seems to have adopted it. It's what has caught on. I've read that he contends that it is always a girl that soldiers fight for. They're always left a girl of some kind at home, one like me, perhaps, or the one they're married to or—at least a mother. And mothers and wives were girls in their day. John has explained that he doesn't think girls change like fashions do. To soldiers who leave them to go to fight for them, they have always been quite the same, reliable and worth while. It's a quaint sort of an idea, but I suppose it must be a good one."

Yvonne had shot a sudden glance at Joanna, and kept her eyes on her, intently, until she finished.

"If I remember correctly," she observed, "he did not always have the opinion that women don't change."

Joanna nodded at her. "Yes, I've been wondering if he's altered his theories, or just altered his scheme to make it pay."

"At any rate," Kenilworth remarked, "he is in a fair way to see his project materialize. It's becoming internationalized and there is talk already of duplicating the idea in other countries. The generation will go any length to draw a lesson or an undisturbing memory out of the last upheaval."

Yvonne decided they had given enough of the tea hour to the merits of John's bid for popular fame. She had observed that Kenilworth, while he gave his part to the discussion, was uneasy. He had studied Joanna's face constantly, and watched every changing light in her eyes and line about her lips. She proposed a turn about the Casino rooms. "We shall have time for an hour of play in trente et quar ante hall."

Prince Michael appropriated her at once, much to Joanna's satisfaction, and led the way along the avenue of poplars through the Casino gardens to the white terrace.

Kenilworth, lagging behind with Joanna, went directly to the subject that concerned him deeply. "You are not going to let his turning up interfere with things, are you?" he asked.

"So far as I can remember," she returned, "he was never interfered much with me. Used to want to, of course, but couldn't then. I could hardly fancy him being much of an influence now."

"Have you, then, completely wiped him out? As you seemed to imply that night when you invited me to join you in a kiss?"

She laughed. "That was so many ages ago, Roddy! I'd lost track of that one."

"That is evading the question," he rebuked her.

"John wouldn't have me then," she said, simply, "when I thought he was the one thing in all the world I wanted to buy with my money. I doubt if he'd want me at all now. He's famous, you see, and well on the road to prosperity. He won't need to take chances. I'm not as good a bet for him now as I was then. Am I, Roddy?"

She was darning him with her smile. There was no wistfulness in it at all, just frank open provocation. "Do you know," he exclaimed, irritably, "you are the most unfathomable creature within my experience?"

She was silent until they came up to the terrace steps. She answered him then as if there had been no lapse of time. "No, I'm not. I was thoroughly fathomed this morning. A man told me he wanted me, however, and whatever I am. If I could say just what I'd like to say about that, I'd say that would be a damn safe bargain for a man to make with any girl. But I can't say that, of course, for I must be a hypocrite and let on that I never swear."

When Joanna Gambles. Kenilworth would have guided his companion around the big Casino building to the pigeon field which lies between it and the sea, but Joanna preferred to go onto the white terrace and into the gambling rooms.

In Roddy's manner there was every sign of the truth of Yvonne's observation in the Trianon summer house at Amette; that he was worried by the reappearance of John in the girl's schemes of things. Secretly she was disturbed by him. During the months in New York, before her departure for London and France, he had been a supercilious admirer, grateful in his devotion, impressing her as a man of the world who had decided to affect enthusiasm over a new toy. Then, suddenly, his attitude and his purpose had altered.

He had deliberately followed her and Yvonne to London. It was then that circle of men and women which revolved about him of his kind, young men who are old enough to be discreet and rich enough to be idle, began to take stock of the seriousness of Roddy Kenilworth in his pursuit of the young American millionaire, Joanna Manners. There was a great deal of boudoir grief over this state of affairs, for Kenilworth was known as another who went from one affair to another at slight provocation, but always magnificently generously. It was felt that if he were definitely lost to his world of sub rosa romance it would be disastrous.

Stevenson, general chairman, is enthusiastic over the large number of useful and beautiful articles that have been contributed by the various departments.

Upon entering the banquet hall, one is reminded of a country fair, with all sorts of good things to eat, and handsome home-made articles for sale. One booth that is particularly attractive is the home economics booth, decorated to represent old Japan. The market booth is also popular with housewives. The hospital committee booth is being well patronized. Flowers, seeds, bulbs and growing plants are on sale at the garden division booth, and booths for dolls, hand-made articles from the exchange, three tables from the art department, the better film department, the junior division and tables from every active committee in the club fill every nook and corner of the spacious banquet hall.

The public is invited to attend the bazar, which will last through Wednesday of this week. An added feature is the serving of lunch at noon each day. Menus will be changed each day, and lunch will be served for 40 cents.

Junior Music Club Has Program.

A most interesting program on "The Golden Age" of harpsichord music was arranged by Miss Clara Mae Smith for the semi-monthly meeting of the Atlanta Junior Music club, which was held Saturday afternoon. Miss Madeline Kelp read a most instructive paper on the history of the harpsichord.

A group of Miss Smith's pupils rendered excellent compositions in the sixteenth, seventeenth and early part of the eighteenth centuries, for the clavichord and harpsichord.

Virginia Deadwyler, dancer, pupil of Miss Marion Bailey, and Vincent Cefalu, violinist, pupil of Professor Lindner, assisted.

Those on the program were David Goldman, Vera Tuglie, Mary Gilbert, Sara Davidson, Frances Jackson, Vincent Cefalu, Virginia Deadwyler, Marie Cochran.

The next meeting of the club will be held on the afternoon of December 5, Miss Florence Watson having charge of the program.

Pranks Innumerable Are Staged By Students at Neophytes' Expense With Amazed Throngs Looking On

BY BEVERLY BURGESS.

The day of initiations is with us! Be prepared for horribly unusual and startling sights on the main thoroughfares, at the busiest intersections and during the rush hours of traffic.

What a tremendous part, so vital and far-reaching, college fraternities and sororities play in the lives of the young men and women of our American commonwealth today!

It is a matter of fact that when the name of a school boy or girl is only casually mentioned, the fraternity or sorority title is always appended, thereby fixing his or her rating as unto "the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not!" By this same affiliation, he or she is known, not only through school days, but out into the business and social life later. It is colossal in its reach!

Pranks Innumerable.

This tie, which is so important and weighty as to be held almost sacred, is welded in a forge of greatest levity and joviality of spirit. In the hazing feature pranks innumerable are played!

The "agonizing culprits" are forced into the most unique and atrocious costumes and then subjected to situations as weird and grotesque as human ingenuity can invent. These "sacred" pranks are showered upon the offending public gratis, as Whitehall and Peachtree are the stages of action. In case of sorority initiations, the field is shifted to Fraternity Row, or out Peachtree road to Courtyard.

"Five Points."

Last Saturday afternoon during the very busiest hour of the very busiest day at the very busiest spot in Atlanta—"Five Points"—there was great excitement. Such crowds around the flag pole that the congestion was well-nigh impenetrable. On approaching slowly—not only from necessity but from a curiosity nearly consuming us—our first thought was, "some terrible accident surely!" We looked for the stretcher, with the mutilated body of the poor victim, to be borne out from the crowd to the expected ambulance.

Perhaps he was a world hero; perhaps Billy Mitchell or Rudolph Valentino was passing through and some one inadvertently ran him down, and here, without fanfare of trumpets, history itself was in the making!

Drawing closer, we noticed some very noted local celebrities amongst "those present."

Certainly the stage was perfectly set, warranting a world event wrapped around a football motif. There stood Doug Wyoff, Tech's more than famous football captain, with the charming Josephine Douglas at his side, (as usual, when at all possible.) There was Carter Barron, Tech's future football captain, of just as huge proportions—not figuratively speaking; Gus McHenry, the fearless, and Fair Pendleton hanging by one hand with his legs locked securely around the pole about half way up!

Before the signal boxes blinked us on from our position of advantage, catching Fair's roving eye, we successfully dislodged him long enough to find out the cause for the assembling of such a distinguished audience. To see such celebrities as these we had been accustomed to parting with the greater part of our worldly goods, and here they were on free exhibit!

We were told an Anak hazing celebration was the order of the day. At once we understood the presence of the celebrities.

Do you know whom the Anaks are? If not, this is of ignorance, particularly at this time of Tech's great football prowess and its attendant hero-worship, must be dispelled!

The Anaks.

The Anaks are a very distinguished honor group at Tech and have done much to make the record on their fair escutcheon what it is today!

Only twelve picked men are added annually to its much-coveted roster. These are men whose names are outstanding in the different activities of the student organization.

That the Georgia School of Technology stands at the very top of all technological schools in the United States of America is, in no little measure, due to the contributions and the untiring efforts of these Anaks as composed the Anak society. President of this organization is George Roffer; Douglas Wyoff is vice president; William G. Houseal, secretary, and Carter Barron, treasurer.

New Men.

The new men for this year, honored by the Anaks in membership, and who occupy seats of honor since "Five Points" Saturday afternoon in the throes of the "agonies of heroism"—or was it the "agonies of culprits," one of life's tremendous paradoxes—were men whose names were familiar to all.

There was Ivan Williams, quarterback on Tech's football team, who occupies a seat of honor since he kicked the field goal which won victory for Tech. He also is president of the glee club. Tom Sharp, another, is manager of Tech's football team and plenipotentiary of all athletic social at Tech. Max Thurnpach, another, is one of the most popular men in school, and John Conn, who has achieved fame as a great baseball player.

These men will be properly initiated at the formal dance to be given at the Druid Hills Golf Club Friday night, which will be an unusually jolly occasion and a memorable one.

Humble and Grateful.

In a group of freshmen who were making their customary round of Sunday afternoon calls recently, a boy was in the crowd who was known as "Tombstone" Davis. Upon being introduced to one of the girls upon whom he was calling, so struck was she with his unusual name that she asked his friend, "Why the cheerful name?" The friend replied, "Since he grazed death so manfully a few years ago with pneumonia we call him 'Tombstone' as a gentle reminder, wanting to keep him humble and grateful."

So "Tombstone" is doomed, I'm very much afraid, to go by this cognomen until the time comes when it will really have to be inscribed on that little slab which, though it plays an important part in our history, none of us ever sees.

Grace Vanderbilt.

Although it's not official, Grace Vanderbilt, sister of the democratic Neely Vanderbilt, Jr., so well known to Atlantans because of his frequent visits here, is reported engaged to Frick Ely, son of the Elys prominently identified with Southampton's social element.

Miss Vanderbilt's name has been linked with international celebrities ever since she made her debut, her record of reported engagements equalling those of the Prince of Wales. Gossip has even gone so far as to say she would marry the heir to England's throne or one of his brothers.

No word of the announcement has come from her distinguished parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., at present residing at 640 Fifth avenue, but its confirmation is expected in the near future.

Mr. Ely is cousin of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., the tall, slender, blue-eyed popular young man who is interested in airships and newspapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Houseal Celebrate Golden Wedding.

Cedartown, Ga., November 23.—The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Emlen Houseal was celebrated by a large gathering of their relatives and friends Monday evening at their hospitable home on Philpot street. Their marriage 50 years ago was solemnized November 15, 1875, with Miss Ida Young as the bride, at the home of her parents, the late Colonel James Young and Mrs. Emline Young, the honored heads of one of Polk county's pioneer families.

Mr. Houseal's native home was Newberry, S. C., where as a young man he went with Newberry college as a member of the senior class when it was removed to Wallula, S. C. Having graduated there in 1869 as the first alumnus of the college, he was elected a member of the faculty. During these 50 years Mr. Houseal has been recognized as one of the town's leading citizens, actively identified with the county's farming, manufacturing and mercantile interests with his wife as a devoted helpmeet.

An especial pleasant feature of the occasion was the presence of their children at the golden anniversary, including Mr. and Mrs. James W. Houseal, of Winnsboro, S. C.; Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Wood, Miss Lucy Houseal and Mrs. R. B. Parks, of Cedartown; William B. Houseal, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. W. F. Wright, of Charlotte, N. C.; and Mrs. R. P. Watson, of Macon, Ga.

The guests were welcomed at the door by Mesdames E. D. Hightower and Norman Sommers. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Houseal were their brothers and sisters: Rev. W. A. Lutz and Mrs. Lutz, of Charlotte, C.; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Houseal, of Columbia, S. C.; Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Houseal, of Newberry, S. C.; Judge and Mrs. F. A. Ely, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Young, Mrs. Kate Hightower, Mrs. Lucy Hawkins and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Young, of Cedartown—all the children of the "bride's" family being present and four out of eight of the bridegroom's brothers and sisters having lived to be present at the only event of the kind that had been celebrated in his family connection.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Houseal assisted in entertaining, and Mesdames Homer Watkins, Lloyd Murphy and M. B. Thweatt presided at the punch bowl. Assisting in the dining room and serving the cake which was decorated with a golden bell as its centerpiece and each cake having the figures "50" in golden tracery in icing, were Mesdames J. G. Brewster, Y. S. Brewster, W. S. Migh-tower and Russell Irwin, Misses Mary Kate Young, Frances Wood, Mary Young, Mildred Cobb, Eva Young, Mary Irwin and Mary Grinnell.

Kappa Alpha Pledge Club To Give Dance On Saturday, Dec. 5

Of wide interest to the members of the college contingent is the announcement of the dance to be given by the pledges of the Kappa Alpha fraternity of Tech from 9 to 12 o'clock on Saturday, December 5. The dance will be given at the Tech gymnasium and will be attended by a large number of college belles who are popular members of the younger set.

The pledges who will be hosts of the occasion are: Charles Anderson, Lewis Des, Raleigh Arnold, Raleigh Drennon, Dick Lyon, Fred Hughes, George Rohrig, Edward Noid, Edward Swift, Thomas Cooke, Eugene Manget, Mosely Roan, Jack McCrackin, Frank Pittman, Bill Stockwell, Walter Sharp, Frank Jenkins, Ernest Defoe and Joe Holliday.

A program was presented in which excellent music by Walter Gustave Houseal, of Atlanta, son of Dr. W. G. Houseal, of Newberry; E. B. Russell, editor of the Cedartown Standard, who became a citizen of the town contemporaneously with J. E. Houseal, contributed a characteristic poem in reciting the romance of the 50 years. Mrs. A. D. Hogg and Mrs.

M. A. Crabb paid tributes to the long lives of usefulness and honor of Mr. and Mrs. Houseal. A further tribute recounting in eloquent vein the excellences of the host and hostess was a poem by Mrs. G. A. Thompson, of Cedartown.

The program closed with old-fashioned strains on the violin by J. S. Young and a reading of similar character by Mrs. F. A. Irwin. The out-of-town guests included: Colonel and Mrs. John Pintup, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Deaton, Mrs. B. L. Lengthy Ministry to Humanity Ended, Mrs. Moore Here for 'Rest'

BY MARY HAWKINS STROBBER.

After nearly 40 years of "mothering" humanity, Mrs. Susan E. Moore is back in Georgia again.

Sworn foe to unhappiness, relentless enemy to all the ills of humankind, she has laid down for a brief time the simple household weapons with which she waged off from others the little trials and the great troubles that rob life of its savor—and now she is ready for "a little rest."

Mrs. Moore was the sister of the late Miss Mary Hogan and Mrs. E. S. Yorton, three women known throughout the south as the presiding angels of "Yorton house" at 239 Central Park West, New York city, noted for its lavish hospitality, its air of genial warmth and that intangible environment that makes home of a structure of stone and wood.

For 20 years "Yorton house" was a rendezvous of southern culture in the alien chill of the east. It was a place rarely invaded by the burr of the conversational "it" where one was assured of big, fat, steaming biscuits for supper and where one could meditate upon the sunny fields that lie south of the Mason-Dixon line without fear of interruption.

Conducted Home in Atlanta.

Prior to their removal to New York the three sisters conducted a famous home for select "guests" in Atlanta. For ten years their table gleamed with old silver and crystal, and the edge of the choicest wit of Atlanta of a past age was sharpened by the heart-warming odors that emanated from their old-fashioned kitchen.

Then 20 years in New York, where the three joined in their efforts against the ravages of nostalgia and petted and pampered hundreds who came under the protection of their motherly hands.

And now the last of the three—her mission of unselfish love and sacrifice ended—is back home with white hair and a tender smile and a veritable treasure-house of memories. She is visiting her cousins, Mrs. Frank Farley and Mrs. James Couper.

Home Their Ideal.

Early in life Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Yorton and "Miss Mary" left their home in Columbus, Ga., for Atlanta, and decided to make, not only a home for themselves, but for others. That

MOTHERS OF DAUGHTERS

Will Profit by reading Mrs. Quigg's Letter Telling How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her Daughter

Royersford, Pa.—"My daughter was sickly from the time she was 13 years old. She was irregular and also had severe headaches, and pains in her sides and back. She was this way about six months before I began giving her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped her very much. She is not bothered by headaches, backaches, or cramping any more, and has not missed but one day. We recommend it to other mothers with girls who have these troubles."—Mrs. QUIGG, 210 Main Street, Royersford, Pa.

Another Mother's Letter

Roxbury, Mass.—"At the age of 16 my daughter was all run down, nervous, with poor blood. These troubles made her weak and unfit to work. She tried several medicines, but they did her no good. Finally I induced her to take the Vegetable Compound, too, and she has gained in health and strength and is now working steadily. I have told these facts to many mothers."—Mrs. HUDSON, 262 East Street, Roxbury, Mass.

TOMORROW—FOUNDING OF NEW NETHERLAND

BEAUTY CHATS

BY EDNA K. FORBES.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Mary F. G.—Olive oil is much better than glycerine for massaging a dry scalp, especially as you have need for such treatment every few days. Separate your hair into numerous strands, and with a drop or two of the oil on your finger tips distribute it along the length of each part and massage all of it into the scalp thoroughly each strand. If you do this carefully none of the oil will go through your hair so it will not lose its natural color. Constant use of glycerine on the scalp would tend to make the scalp more dry than it is at present.

Mrs. George F. T.—Henna is harmless, so you are safe in using it as much as you like. It is possible that your hair is coarser than the average, or perhaps it does not take up moisture very quickly; in either case, a longer time would be needed for the henna pack to give the hair the requisite amount of coloring.

L. E. P.—Add a very little bit of rouge to your almond meal to give it the flesh tint you wish. Another method to add a few drops of beet juice to any powder; after it dries again, rub the color through until all of the powder is of an even tint.

Mrs. G. W. M.—There is no special size for the bags used to hold the oatmeal mixture for bathing purposes. Leave enough room for the meal to swell after it is wet, and tie a string around the opening in order to secure it. Several teaspoonfuls of the mixture will be enough in filling the bags to be used on the complexions and more for a larger bag to serve the purpose of a full bath.

Cora D. G.—Instead of massaging the line on the side of your mouth, try to make your tissues firm over the entire face and throat. One way to do this is to give yourself an astringent treatment as often as necessary; once a week will be about right in your case until the line has disappeared.

A powerful although harmless astringent is made of mixing together one part white of egg and six parts water. There will be enough egg for a complete treatment that will be found adhering to the eggshell after the whole egg has been dropped from it.

Cleanse the skin first of all soil and then paint it with the egg and water, going over the throat all the way around, under the chin and over the face clean up to the hair line. Relax and give the astringent about 20 minutes to dry and make the skin taut before removing it with warm water. Massage with a good cream after this and conclude the treatment by closing the pores with very cold water or by an ice rub.

Tomorrow—Eyeglasses.

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly
Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good. Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. If desired, thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup. And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind. (adv.)

For Your Protection

If You Use

Self-Rising Flour

You ought to see that the Shield shown above is on every sack you buy.

PURITY---UNIFORMITY

The shield shown here is an emblem adopted by the Soft Wheat Millers' Association---sixty or more of the leading millers of this country. Their reputation and their millions are behind a guarantee that every sack of self-rising flour with this shield on it is pure soft wheat flour, together with the highest grade phosphate and soda for leavening and salt for seasoning. Its purity and baking qualities are absolutely guaranteed.

Dr. E. M. Nelson, Director of Chemistry and Nutrition Department, Soft Wheat Millers' Association, headquarters in Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Nelson has for nine years been engaged in chemistry and nutrition research work.

Two of the most foremost authorities agree that the most common fault of the American dietary is a lack of lime. Dr. Nelson has brought out the important fact that self-rising flour contains at least seven times as much lime as either whole wheat flour or plain white flour.

Self-rising flour is therefore much more efficient in balancing the diet than other flours.

Self-Rising Flour Is Economical

The barrel (192 pounds) is the standard of measurement used by the miller. To make a barrel of Self-Rising Flour, it is necessary to replace a part of the flour with the leavening ingredients. It so works out that the dealer can sell self-rising almost as cheaply as he can sell plain flour, the differential being about 25 cents per barrel. The extra amount invested in self-rising flour means a great saving to the housewife. A barrel of self-rising flour contains in round numbers 182 pounds of flour and 10 pounds of salt and leavening. With plain flour at 5 cents a pound, or $9.60 per barrel, 182 pounds of plain flour would cost $9.10. About 10 pounds of baking powder is needed to leaven 182 pounds of this flour. This costs at retail 30 cents to 60 cents per pound, or from $3.00 to $6.00 per 182 pounds of flour. Three and six-tenths pounds of table salt at 5 cents per pound cost 18 cents. The total cost to the housewife for 192 pounds of plain flour plus baking powder, plus salt, is thus:

182 lbs. of flour at 5c.....	$ 9.10 to $ 9.60
10 lbs. of baking powder at 30c to 60c.....	3.00 to 6.00
182 lbs. of flour at 5c.....	.18 to .18
195.6 lbs. Total.....	$12.28 to $15.78

This gives 3.6 pounds over a barrel because 10 pounds of commercial baking powder contains about 3.6 pounds of corn starch as a filler or diluent. Crediting this corn starch at 5 cents per pound, we have a net cost to the housewife of $12.10 to $15.60, depending upon the kind of baking powder used. The same grade of flour in self-rising would cost $9.60, plus 25 cents, or $9.85. The total saving, all factors considered, is thus from $2.25 to $5.25 per barrel.

New York, November 23.—(AP)—A further advance in the cotton market today met realizing sales, and after selling at 20.47 January declined to 20.15, closing at 20.16, compared with 20.10 at the close Saturday. The general market closed barely steady, net 0 points higher to 20 points lower.

The opening was firm at an advance of 14 to 35 points under continued buying, stimulated by the official crop and ginning figures of Saturday. Initial prices brought in a good deal of profit taking, but early offerings were absorbed on slight setbacks and buying on the bullish view of the latest crop forecast was promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables. Houses with continental trade connections were reported among the buyers, and there were private reports of buying by both exporters and domestic mill interests in the southern spot markets, which may have contributed to the advance.

After selling at 21.42 early, December was relatively easy, but March worked up to 20.53 in the early afternoon, and at the best prices of the day the market showed net gains of 23 to 42 points, and recoveries of about 132 points from the low level of Saturday morning. The demand then tapered off, while the relatively easy ruling of December seemed to stimulate profit-taking by recent buyers of later deliveries, and the afternoon market was easier. December broke to 20.33, a net decline of 7 points, and the December premium over January narrowed from about 100 points in early trading to 78 points at the close. There was switching from December to January and March, and these two positions ruled relatively firm, showing

High Lights in The Cotton Market

BY THEO H. PRICE
Editor of Commerce and Finance

New York, November 23.—The cotton problem, like Gaul, is now divided into three parts. There is, first, the value of the tenderable grades of which the supply is probably smaller than last season.

Second, there is the status of the poorer qualities that are so abundant because of the bad weather, and finally there is the puzzle created by the premiums and discounts at which the various months are selling.

In each of these aspects the market is worthy of closer study than has been given to it in this letter, but it may at least be said that in so far as good cotton is concerned the trade seems to be convinced that it is scarce and that it is worth all or more than it is selling for.

This explains the steadiness of contracts on which only good cotton can be delivered, and the willingness of those who need the tenderable qualities to buy futures on all soft spots.

As to the low grades, their superabundance appears to have been fully discounted by the prices at which they are selling west of the Mississippi river, and if there were any way to hedge them safely they might be bought with confidence that their spinning value would ultimately be recognized.

But when it comes to considering the differences between the months, we get into a field that defies the accuracy of the most experienced dealers. December maintains its premium over January with a persistence that has surprised many, and unless a substantial quantity of cotton shall be attracted to New York before the new year, it is quite possible that March and May will in turn be put to a premium that will insure the liquidation of the reserve that the world's largest future market ought to have in order to preserve its breadth and freedom.

It is, indeed, a perplexing situation and about the only conclusion that can be deduced from it is that by its very perplexity it has made any permanent or serious decline unlikely.

Meantime, in its latest guess, issued Saturday morning, the crop reporting board estimates the crop at 15,208,000 bales. This is 88,000 bales below the estimate of two weeks ago. The market, which had been a little droopy just before the report, suddenly advanced 30 points, but the figures rather than the crop reporting board's outlying, probably were responsible for the upturn.

The census bureau reported that up to the close of business on November 14, 12,249,335 bales and passed through the gins. The amount ginned between October 31 and November 14 was only 1,051,000 bales, or at the rate of about 87,000 bales per working day as compared with a rate of 140,000 bales per day in the previous period. The falling off was rather more than had been expected, despite the unfavorable weather that had been reported from some sections of the belt.

Exports continue at a high rate. Last week they totaled 370,433 bales, as against 353,932 bales for the same week last year. Total exports for the season to date are 3,206,620 bales compared with 2,799,185 bales up to the same date in 1924. Of more than passing interest is the fact that shipments to Germany thus far this season exceed those to Great Britain.

Sugar.

New York, November 23.—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged today at 4.08, duty paid. The only sale reported was 2,000 bags of Philippines stout at quoted prices.

With tomorrow first notice day for December contracts, the raw sugar futures market was somewhat irregular and closed with December 1 point lower, but other periods 2 to 3 points higher. There was considerable liquidation of December, although offerings were well taken. December closed 2.29, March 2.40, May 2.50, July 2.70. In refined sugar new deliveries were light and prices were unchanged at 5.00 to 5.50 for fine granulated.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, November 23.—With some motor shares down 20, 50 and 70 points, and with other high-priced stocks, including Steel common, down 10 points or more from the recent high, which indicates a correction of the recent overbought condition of the stock market, trading began today to take on a holiday tone, but on the side of steadiness.

In the early trading, motors were again subjected to a raid by the bears, who recently have been selling borrowed stocks short. Some new money made in individual motor shares compared with the recent highs, but the net results of today's short selling in the motors indicated that the bears have done their worst.

Bears Discriminate on Motors.
Today it was evident that traders selling borrowed motor stocks short are being forced, for the first time since the downward price movement developed, to discriminate between the stocks of companies making passenger cars and those manufacturing trucks. Companies having a large percentage of production in trucks held steady today, while other motor shares were declining. This is understood to mean that even those traders in the stock market, who think that the speculation on the long side in the drops in the stock market, was overdone, are not of the same opinion regarding the stocks of the motor companies making trucks, and holding on to their locks to continue to run a high price rate during the winter months.

There is no question but that even the insiders in the passenger motor stocks were not so sure of their ground as they were a few days ago. They have bounced off their feet by the recent wild speculation in these shares. For example, after Hudson Motors had been dropping for several days, it was high, people with inside information regarding earnings, etc., began to buy the stock, thinking that the price could not go lower. Today the price of the stock was down another 20 points from the level at which the insiders in question recently began to buy, thinking that the price was low.

Buying in Chrysler Motors.
Similar buying has been reported in Chrysler. People in Wall street having the best inside information on what the company is doing and expecting to do, have been buying the stock, and the price has risen from 25 to 30, to buy steadily in large blocks. Stocks thus purchased may in time show a profit. But today it shows a very large paper loss.

No one could be found in Wall street today looking for an early return of speculation in the stock market such as has recently been witnessed in the motor stock market. The best feeling here is that the bull market is not over, and will be resumed later on a more sane basis, with steel, rails and oil leading. Stocks in the groups just named were steady to strong today, even while the motors were soft.

Federal Reserve Meeting Wednesday.
It was announced today that the regular weekly meeting of officials of the federal reserve bank here would be held this Wednesday. Instead of Thursday, because of Thanksgiving holidays, the meeting was postponed. It is expected Wednesday. But even if the rate should be increased, it will not have the same effect stock-marketwise as it would have had before the stock market had its severe break in prices. It was not the bank rate which caused the decline in the stock market, but the overnight condition of the stock market itself.

Pennsylvania crude oil was advanced today from 15 cents to 25 cents a barrel, while some price readjustments were made in the mid-continent field where producers were selling high and low grade oil at different prices. Today's price changes in mid-continent crude were intended to stabilize prices, and production in that district in response to the movement in this direction started some weeks ago in the California field. Some of the big oil people here in the east are still talking to create the impression that there is still severe competition in the oil industry. It may be stated as a fact, however, that there is far less competition today than there was some weeks ago, or before the large producers in the California field got together for the purpose of regulating production of crude and refined.

Market of 1926 Recalled.
People who have been in Wall street for 25 years are continuing to fix in the existing stock market and its background, factors which closely resemble those recalled in 1920, when the country witnessed the biggest bull stock market in its history. The big bull stock market of 25 years ago had for its foundation accumulation of capital from a period of enforced economies, plus a sweeping victory for the republican party, with a leader in the white house enjoying the confidence of business men, plus a period of widespread mergers.

In the big bull market 25 years ago, the Gates, the Moores, the Schwabs, the Reids all flocked to Wall street from all parts of the country with their pockets and bank accounts bulging with funds received from the steel mergers. Being out of a job and with more money than they had ever dreamed having they naturally turned to the stock market. What these men did in the stock market is now a part of Wall street's history. In much the same way men now prominent in the automobile industry have recently been making stock market history.

Motors Are Steels of 1900.
What the Gates, the Moores, the Schwabs, the Reids did in 1901 in the stocks of the newly merged steel companies has recently been done in the stocks of merged automobile companies by men who in recent years have made new and enormous fortunes in the automobile industry. In 1901, John V. Gates was willing to bet anybody a million dollars that Steel common was going through the roof. What Steel common did was to decline from its high of 55 in 1901 to 8-3-8 in 1904.

What Gates and Reid and Schwab and the rest of the new steel millionaires dropped in the big bull stock market of 1901 is "nobody's business," but Gates, to get back some of the money he dropped in the steel market, turned to development of the Texas Oil company. Reid, for the same purpose, turned to American Can, while Schwab was devoting his time and energy to Bethlehem Steel, then a struggling and not too promising infant. What these men dropped in the stock market did not mean that there was no money to be made in the steel industry. It simply meant that for the time being they had lost their heads in the stock market.

The desire of the interstate commerce commission to abandon its rigid program for the construction of railroads in favor of a more flexible system, in view of the fact that the commission has several pending merger proposals, involving the $1,500,000,000 "Nickel Plate" merger, the new Southern system being formed by the L. & N. and several smaller amalgamations, most of which are in some degree the letter and spirit of the transportation act. It is expected that the commission will find it less difficult to approve voluntary mergers of the carriers.

Prices of steel scrap in the Chicago district have been reduced 25 cents, new quotations being $10 to $10.30 a ton.

The sale of 100,000 shares of the new common stock of the Williams Oil-Matrix Heating corporation, manufacturers of electrically-operated domestic oil burners, at $15 per share was announced today by Hurdell and Weeks. The stock was acquired from individuals and does not involve any new financing by the company.

Dry Goods.

New York, November 23.—Cotton cloth buyers today were bidding low prices for print cloths, duck, and some other lines, but mills were disinclined to accept. Finished goods were rather quiet at the opening, although road business appeared in small lots. Raw silk showed little change at Calcutta and quiet here. Wool blankets were the largest market. The stock was active and the market was a few days wide fluctuations for the cutting trade.

CURB ISSUES FALL AFTER EARLY RISE

New York, November 23.—(AP)—Stock prices headed for higher ground under the leadership of the oil shares in the early part of today's curb market, but fell back later, when a reaction developed on the "big board." Net losses in the active issues ranged from 1 to 3 points.

Stiffening crude and gasoline prices provided the background for the early advance in the oil shares, Gulf showing a net gain of 1 1/2 to 8 3/4, in direct reflection of the advance of 25 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania crude. Other oils were mixed, International showing a small fractional gain after establishing a new peak at 30 3/8, while Humble, Standard Oil of Indiana and Vacuum yielded fractional. Lion Oil also touched a new top at 25 7/8.

Radio issues were weak. Hazeltine showing a net loss of 2 points at 10, after having sold within a fraction of the year's low at 14 1/2. Music Master, Charles Freshman and DeForest, all about a point lower.

Electrical Refrigeration issues were mixed. Kelvinator closing fractionally higher on publication of a report showing over $4 a share earned on the stock in the first nine months of the year, while Nier issues and Servco fell back a point or so. Canadara Dry Ginger Ale and Tung Sol Lamp were strong, but Atlas Portland Cement, Fleischmann (new), Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Florida lost a point or two.

A drop of 3 1/4 points in Electric Investors and a gain of 2 1/4 in American Light and Traction were the outstanding developments in the public utilities. Speculative interests in the mining group was limited to a few issues, with the revival of activity in Kay Copper on reports of important development work as one of the few features.

Oil Interests Lose Litigation In High Court

Washington, November 23.—(AP)—A move by the Standard Oil Company of California to stop the interior department's investigation into the mineral character of certain of its Elk Hills, Cal., land holdings, was overruled today in the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

Chief Justice Mc Coy, in denying a preliminary injunction sought by the company, declared the secretary of the interior was authorized by law to press the inquiry and that no court had a right to stop him.

The land, a part of the naval reserve, was turned over to the state of California for public purposes under the representation that it contained no minerals. Subsequently it was acquired by the Standard company. Title of the company was brought into question during the administration of Secretary Lane and later hearings were conducted before Secretary Fall. On the contention that title had been finally awarded the company without hearing of the government's case, the senate, on motion of Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, instructed the interior department to bring action for recovery of the land.

M. Rich & Brothers' Pet Bears Invade Toyland on 'Spree'

A visit to "Toyland" in the M. Rich Brothers' store Sunday morning by Fuzzy and Wuzzy, two baby brown bears, pets of the big store, was rewarded with some toys of their own to play with in their cage on the fourth floor. The bears were found playing with the various toys in an amusing way after they had escaped from the cage.

After their "spree" they were willing to walk back into their cage when it was opened by J. C. Mackey, keeper. They were given their usual breakfast of bread and milk and a rubber ball and other toys with which to play.

Southern Bankers for Southern Corporations

Up until a few years ago, Southern industrial corporations, which needed capital for business advancement were largely forced to go to the bankers of other sections for their funds. The growth of Southern investment banking in recent years, however, has made possible the further development of Southern industries by means of capital from all sections of the country supplied through Southern bankers.

Rapid industrial progress has been made in the South during the last ten years. This progress, which will undoubtedly continue in increasing volume, will demand a constantly increasing volume of corporate financing. To continue to take our part in this development, we have enlarged our Corporation Department so as to be prepared to render even broader service to the South and Southern corporations.

This department devotes its entire time to the purchase and underwriting of corporate securities and to providing financial advisory service for Southern corporations. Its experts are able to analyze the financial position of companies and to suggest improvement, in many cases, through additional capital or re-arrangement of capital structure. Where new financing is needed, they are able to suggest the best type of financing, both from the standpoint of the company and of the investor.

The experience and facilities of our Corporation Department are at the disposal of Southern corporations which may be contemplating additions to plants or working capital, or readjustment of capital structure. Officials are invited to open a discussion of their financial programs with this department.

All communications should be addressed to Corporation Department.
